EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THE official count gives Pattison's plurality 40,258.

SAMUEL F. BARR'S plurality for Congress in the Fourteenth district was 145.

THE Canadian papers are confident that the great Democratic victory means free trade.

THE only Greenbacker in the next Congress will be Mr. Brumm, of Schuylkill county, this State.

BOSTON Transcript:—Of all the sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these—you must have Ben.

NOW if we only knew the name of the next President of these United States our cup of joy would be full.

GOVERNOR-ELECT PATTISON has selected Rev. Dr. Everett, a Methodist minister, to be his private secretary.

THE Democratic Congress will have about fifty contested election cases on hand when it meets next March.

A DEMOCRATIC congress assures a Republican victory in '84. A Democratic congress, if let alone, will dig its own grave.

MINNESOTA will return Ex Secretary Windom to the Senate. She is the only state that brought her congressional delegation through all right.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Philadelphia Press brings out Blaine and Beaver for 1884. Such a ticket would sweep through Pennsylvania like wildfire.

STATE SENATOR-ELECT Wm. A. Wallace no doubt hopes to reach the United States Senate by the way of Harrisburg. He did so once and he may again.

GENERAL BEAVER polled nearly 300,000 votes and Stewart less than 12,000 votes. The Independents would ruin the Republican party because they cannot rule it.

THEY say now that Mr. Folger never expected to carry New York. What did he write that everlasting long letter of acceptance for, then? —Watchman. To show that he accepted the situation, of course.

"HE will undoubtedly make the best governor Massachusetts has had for years." It is the Altoona Tribune that gets off the above and Ben. Butler is the gentleman alluded to. Just what the Tribune bases its opinion on is hard to tell.

FRANK JAMES lives like a prince since his confinement in prison. This inoffensive outlaw, who can count his murders by the dozen, has had his cell furnished with carpet, fine furniture, pictures, &c., and has his meals supplied by admiring friends from a restaurant.

THERE is already talk in some quarters that the Democrats will undertake to organize the next State Senate by supporting some Independent Republican for President who can command sufficient help on his own side to secure a majority. If the Republicans are smart they will forestall any such movement and present a united front.

THERE is said to be in Victoria, British Australia, an almond-leaf gum, which reaches the enormous height of 380 feet before throwing out a single branch, and is 480 feet to the top, having a girth of 60 feet at some distance above the ground. On this basis the tree, growing by the side of Trinity church, the highest church edifice in New York, would overtop the spire by exactly 140 feet.

Roses on the Party Wall.

The Philadelphia Times has the following comments to offer upon the political incident which occurred in this place on the occasion of the Democratic jubilee, Saturday evening, the 11th instant:

"That is an interesting and instructive incident reported from Bellefonte. General Beaver's own county had voted against him for Governor, and he was very little ahead even in his own town. But General Beaver, as a good citizen, had lost none of the good will of his townsmen, and when the Democrats assembled in mass meeting to celebrate their victory they could not feel their rejoicing complete till they had gone in a body to General Beaver's house to assure him of their continued affection and esteem. The tribute was accepted by the defeated candidate in the same spirit in which it was tendered. The chairman of the Republican county committee had made a good tempered speech at the Democratic meeting and the chairman of the Democratic committee made a speech at Beaver's house, and everybody went away feeling glad that the hard hitting of the campaign had left no ugly scars behind.

"All this is as it ought to be. It is one of the things we have always to be glad of that with whatever earnestness we may contend for party victory, the verdict given at the polls is always accepted as final, by victors and vanquished alike. It is rarely that the animosities of the canvass survive election day, and though it is often said that the roughness of our political warfare is such as to make sensitive men shrink from accepting a nomination, an instance cannot be recalled in which a candidate who really deserved respect was ever damaged in reputation by the hardest fought campaign or lost any share of the good will of his fellow citizens in defeat.

"The incident at Bellefonte recalls a memorable occurrence at Hartford on the night of Grant's first election, in 1868. Both parties were expecting success and the political clubs were all prepared to parade as soon as a result should be known. Fortune favored the Republicans, but the Democrats did not go home in a sulk. Earnestly as they had desired Grant's defeat they knew that the country was still safe after all and that all good citizens were equally concerned in the maintenance of public happiness and good will and they turned in with their torches behind the victorious Republicans and thus robbed defeat of all its bitterness.

"This is not sentimentality; it is common sense. We are not called upon to abandon our convictions or to change our opinion of men or measures; but all the efforts to influence the public judgment are based on the assumption that the public is a competent tribunal and its judgment entitled to loyal and ready submission. As to personalities, so-called, they never harm those who do not deserve to be harmed. As our views of politics enlarge, as necessarily they must, and as we cultivate the habit of cheerful obedience to the deliberate verdict of an intelligent majority, we shall learn to prefer courtesy to cruelty and kind and respectful criticism to abuse of our opponents. And this is something that will tend to better government and something also that is to be prized for its own sake. As General Garfield beautifully said to the Ohio Legislature after his election to the Senate, when he publicly thanked his opponent, Senator Thurman, for his earnest defense and kindness toward him in their canvass: 'The flowers that bloom over the garden wall of party politics are the sweetest and most fragrant that bloom in the gardens of this world, and where we can early pluck them and enjoy their fragrance, it is manly and delightful so to do.'"

Blaine's Withdrawal.

It is not often that men who have so sure a prospect as James G. Blaine of receiving the nomination to the highest office within the gift of the people are so quick to notifiy an admiring populace that they will not accept the nomination under any circumstances To reach the dizzy height which the ruler of a great people occupies is a temptation which almost none can resist, and where there is the slightest opportunity of attaining that position every ulterior object becomes subbordinated to it. No man can truthfully deny that Blaine is now the most popular man in the Republican party. He is and always has been our choice, but we recognize his wisdom while we are lost in admiration at his courage in withdrawing from the contest at this time, advising harmony and unity of action on the part of all factions of the greatest and best party that ever existed. The Altoona Tribune thus expresses our opinion on the subject: "Mr. Blaine has set an example which certain other politicians might well imitate. He has caused it to be announced that he is not now a candidate for the presidency and will not be in 1884. Probably no public man is stronger to-day in the affections of the American people than Mr. Blaine. None occupy a more advantageous position. His own state remained firm in the republican column, or rather returned to it this year, while the states of all his prominent antagonists swung over into the democratic line. But Mr. Blaine sees that the need of the hour is harmony. He understands that while he is strong with the people he is the object of intense hatred among the politicians. Probably his nomination would be followed by his election, for the rank and file are at his back and would give him a hearty support in spite of his enemies. But his nomination would be the signal for a fierce outbreak, and under present circumstances it is imperative that the next Republican candidate for the presidency have the hearty support of the entire party. Mr. Blaine, like a patriotic citizen, takes himself out of the way and thus, to the extent of his ability, contributes to the restoration of party harmony. We judge that a great many of his friends will not take kindly to this action. They desire that he should be their next standard bearer in the next national campaign. It is likely, however, as time passes, that the wisdom of his resolve will become more and more apparent to all. What is wanted now is about a dozen declinations of the same sort from other prominent men. The work of the future must be done by men who have no antagonisms."

Democrats for Places.

Almost as countless as the leaves of the forest, says the Philadelphia Press, are the candidates for places under a Democratic administration in Pennsylvania. A little more than a week after the election, and already the pressure from the counties for county favorites is rapidly developing into a crush. Long abstinence has whetted a naturally good appetite, but many of the fasters will be lucky indeed if they get a seat at the second table.

For the attorney-generalship, George M. Dallas, ex-Senator Buckalew, William S. Stenger, John R. Read, John J. Metzger and Malcolm Hay are the most prominent individuals named. By common consent of the Democracy the list of candidates for Secretary of the Commonwealth is limited for the present to the little body of the elect, the few but tried and true companions who escorted the next governor as a candidate to the uttermost limits of the State and back again. On this list are the names of Chairman Hensel, Senator Gordon and John R. Read. With them, with the governor-elect, and with the workings of the controller's office in Philadelphia, many of the citizens of Pennsylvania became well acquainted during the closing weeks of the campaign.

For speaker of the House the merits of the veteran "Uncle Jake" Zeigler, of Butler county; John E. Faunce, of Philadelphia; McDowell Sharpe, of Franklin; McCrumm, of Crawford; Steuben Jenkins, of Luzerne, and Hasson, of Venango, are urged with varying degrees of fervor and force. As clerk of the House for many years "Uncle Jake" Zeigler has had the abundant experience which helps to make the efficient speaker. The Democratic delegation from Philadelphia "cheerfully unite in presenting the claims of John E. Faunce" as speaker. As the Democratic conference which thus cautiously endorsed Mr. Faunce, was so much afraid of being considered a caucus and acted as if treading on eggs toward a Presidential election, it may be assumed that the claims of Mr. Faunce for the speakership might have been stated in stronger terms. Though the season for candidates is not a backward one, it is still early in the season, and other names will be presented as the earth rolls round.

The Official Vote for Governor.

Below we give the official vote in Pennsylvania for Governor, with the exception of Warren county (not counted.) It is a suggestive table and bears out our assertion of last week that the good luck of Pattison is solely due to a stampede of Independent voters into the Democratic ranks. The Independent vote is shown by the table to be less than it was last year.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD was shot down by the assassin Guiteau for refusing to give him a diplomatic appointment, and now an itinerant glazier of Washington, with another crooked kind of a name, comes forward to claim an appointment of the watchman or doorkeeper order, because one of the Guiteau bullets smashed about a quarter's worth of his glass and putty instead of hitting the President. The basis upon which an office-hunting claim can be sustained appears to be of a most elastic character.

THE woman suffrage movement has met with a set-back in Nebraska, where the amendment was defeated by a majority ranging somewhere between twenty and thirty thousand. The colored people were opposed to it, as was also the foreign born element. The liquor dealers voted solidly against it, as might be expected, from their dread of prohibition. It was anticipated that the admission of the women to suffrage would at once be followed by a stern temperance campaign, as most of the women who were actively engaged in this canvass are well-known temperence advocates. Its fate in Nebraska would seem to indicate that there is very little prospect of success for woman suffrage in Oregon, where the next effort is to be made, inasmuch as the liquor interest is considerably stronger in the latter state. From a table compiled some time since by the Christian Index, it appears that while there are in Nebraska 487 persons to every bar-room, Oregon can show up a grogshop for every 70 inhabitants.

Now that the Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks has really recovered from his attack of so-called "senile gangrene," a story has come out which is decidedly at the expense of his physicians. On the very day, the tale runs, to which the medical prophets in attendance had limited his life, a blunt old granger—also a doctor, after a fashion—called to pay him a farewell visit. After a pathetic interview the country practitioner thought he would take a look at the "gangrene" which was about to terminate his illustrious friend's life. He did so; stared at it, open-mouthed, for a moment; and then with a derisive grunt and an indignant, thumping oath, roared out: 'Nothing but a boil!" Surely enough, Mr. Hendricks was very soon rushing along the high road to recovery, and the able physicians who attended him are keeping moderately quiet.

IN the face of the lessons of last summer's labor troubles there are a thousand men in the puddling mills in the west who have determined to go on a strike rather than work for the Pittsburgh schedule to which they agreed two months ago. The sense of this is not quite clear. At the beginning of winter and the close of navigation, when Western mine employers reduce the number of their hands, these men determine to go on strike. If the half-starved man pushed away the food that would keep him alive until better times came, his action would be no more unreasonable than this resolve to strike in the face of certain loss and defeat. Laboring men should pause for a long time before taking a step that would open the doors of their homes to hunger and cold and suffering. The law of reason is against such strikes as this.

WE never saw or heard anything to excel the clear and manly sentences contained in the following extract from a letter which General Beaver wrote to General Robert McAllister, of Allentown, under date of Bellefonte, November 10: "I have no personal disappointments at the result of the election I did the very best for the party I could and am not responsible for the result. Lehigh county did well; so did Centre. I have the satisfaction of knowing that my real friends are friends still and that I have made no sacrifice, either of principle or of self-respect. There are many things better than success, and I have most of them."

THE Harrisburg Telegraph is unnecessarily excited over the Republican defeat. It is so awfully worked up as to exclaim "that James G. Blaine will never be President of the United States." Just as though that gentleman was in any way responsible for the result. Such exhibitions of unfriendly feeling towards Blaine will do the party no good in Pennsylvania.

She was born in England and removed to this country in 1851, and has since resided in Schulkill county. She is still enjoying good health, walks around without any assistance and retains her memory to a remarkable degree.

REBECCA BELLIS, on trial in Reading on a charge of setting fire to the barn and residence of Adam Kindt, of Richmond township, Berks county, was acquitted, the prosecution failing to make out a case. The defendant, who is described as quite attractive, was warmly congratulated on the result of the trial.

SCOTT MILLER, a miner, has returned to Connelsville after a varied experience. Nine years ago, while at work at the same place, he inherited five thousand dollars. He went to Colorado, made sixty thousand dollars spent his fortune in dissipation, saw his brother shot dead by desperadoes, and his own life being threatened, he returned east to resume his old occupation in the mine.

Poetry.

WE SHALL KNOW.

When the mists have rolled in splendor
From the beauty of the hills,
And the sunshine, warm and tender,
Falls in kisses on the rills,
We may read love's shining letters,
In the rainbow of the spray;
We shall know each other better
When the mists have cleared away.

If we err in human blindness,
And forget that we are dust,
If we miss the law of kindness,
When we struggle to be just,
Snowy wings of peace shall cover
All the pain that clouds our day,
When the weary watch is over
And the mists have cleared away.
We shall know as we are known,
Nevermore to walk alone,
In the dawning of the morning,
When the mists have cleared away.

When the silvery mists have veiled us
From the faces of our own,
Oft we deem their love have failed us,
And we tread our path alone;
We should see them near and truly,
We should trust them day by day,
Neither love nor blame unduly,
If the mists were cleared away.
We shall know as we are known,
Never more to walk alone
In the dawning of the morning,
When the mists have cleared away

TRUE HONORS.

A bard lived, once upon a time,
Of good and honest name,
Who frequently dropped into rhyme,
Without a thought of fame,

Until one day an agent trim
Appeared before this singer,
And asked if he might name for him
His patent new clothes-wringer.

And then he heard that far out west
A nursery man of means
Had called for him his very best
Superior kind of beans.

Fast flocked those honors at his feet,
Faster by far than dollars;
And when for him was named a sweet
New thing in paper collars,

He asked confused by all these brands,
"What is there in a name?"
And all the people clapped their hands,
And answered, "That is fame."

Our Story Teller.

The Fifty-Dollar Bill.

Mrs. Dane sat in her little kitchen. She never used her parlor. There was the extravagance of an extra fire to be considered—the fact that the best rag carpet, woven by her own skillful hands, must not be worn out too recklessly, the dread possibility of sunshine fading out the chair covers. Mrs. Dane was an economist. She believed in making everything last as long as she could. And so she had made the kitchen her head-quarters, and sat there knitting with her feet comfortably balanced on the stone hearth, the saucepan of apples bubbling away at her back, and the sound of her husband's axe ringing from the back shed as he cut and split the kindling piled up there in well seasoned logs.

She was a little wrinkled faced woman of fifty, with stiff ribbon bows to her cap, hair that seemed dried up instead of silvered, and keen, blue eyes that twinkled as if they had discovered perpetual motion. To save money was her chief end and aim in life. The very mittens she was knitting were to be sold in exchange for sugar, tea, spices, and all such necessary articles, at the village grocery.

"A penny saved is just as good as a penny earned," was the golden rule by which she shaped her life.

"I'm glad that I took that money out of the savings bank, yesterday," said Mrs. Dane, to herself, as the bright needles clicked merrily away. "People say it isn't quite safe, and one can't be too careful. But then, again, there's the danger of burglars—though, to be sure, no burglar," she added, with a complacent, inward chuckle, "would ever think of looking in the folds of the old Clinkerville Clarion newspaper, in the wall pocket on the wall. It's the bureau drawers, and the trunks, and the locked up closets that they aim for. A fifty-dollar bill! a clean, crisp, new fifty-dollar bill! And all savings, too, out of the house money."

Just then there sounded a knock at the door, and in came old Dr. Bridgeman, rubicund with the touch of the March wind, and muffled up in the furs of the wild animals which he had shot from time to time.

"Good-day, Mrs. Dane; good-day!" said he. "No, thank you; I can't sit down, I'm a deal too busy for that. But I heard yesterday that you took fifty dollars out from the savings bank."

"Yes," said Mrs. Dane, her face involuntarily hardening, "I did."

"We are taking up a subscription to get little lame Dick Bodley a cart and donkey so he can go round peddling tinware," said the doctor. "It's pretty hard for anyone afflicted as he is to get along, and if you can help us a little—"

"But I can't," interrupted Mrs. Dane, in a breathless manner. "The money was an investment. I don't propose to cut it up into little bits."

"It's a deed of charity, Mrs. Dane," said the good old doctor, "to help poor lame Dick Bodley."

"I dare say," said Mrs Dane, a little irritably. "But I never pretend to be a charitable character anyway."

The old doctor went away, and the next visitor was Helen Hursh, a rosy-cheeked girl of eighteen.

"Excuse me, Mrs. Dane, but Larry Johnson was at the bank yesterday, and he tells me you drew out your money."

"I wonder if all creation was there," thought Mrs. Dane.

But she said nothing, only knit away, until her needles seemed to glance and glitter like points of fire.

"I am trying to get a boarding place at Mrs. Swipes," said Helen, coloring, "so as to be near the district school, where I am to teach in the spring. But Mrs. Swipes requires payment in advance by the month, and unfortunately we have used up all our slender means in providing my outfit. A teacher, you know, must be dressed decently, to command the respect of her pupils. And if you would kindly lend me ten dollars—"

"I never lend," said Mrs. Dane, curtly.

"I will be sure to pay you when I receive my first quarter's salary," pleaded Helen. "I don't know of any one else to go to."

"It's altogether against my principles," said Mrs. Dane, her face as if it had been cut out of hickory.

Helen crept out, feeling humiliated and disappointed.

Mrs. Dane chuckled at her own shrewdness; but she hardly had time to stir up the apples in the saucepan before Mrs. Graham entered with a memorandum book and pencil.

"I am looking for charitable people, Mrs. Dane," said the squire's wife, with a good-natured laugh.

"Then you've come to the wrong place," said Mrs. Dane, frigidly.

"Poor Patrick O'Hara was killed yesterday by the machinery of the rolling mill," said Mrs. Graham, ignoring her neighbor's response "He has left a wife and eight children totally destitute."

"And whose fault is that?" said Mrs. Dean, sarcastically.

"Will you not contribute something toward relieving their destitute condition," urged Mrs. Graham, opening the book and holding the pencil ready for use.

"Certainly not," said Mrs. Dane. "I have no money to spare."

"But I was told—"

"Oh, yes—about the money that was drawn out of the saving bank," said Mrs. Dane. "But I intend to keep that money for myself, Mrs. Graham."

"He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord," softly spoke Mrs. Graham.

"Yes, yes—I know," said Mrs. Dane "But nobody interprets the Bible literally nowadays."

Mrs. Graham took her departure, acknowledging within herself that her errand had been a failure, and Mrs. Dane, left to herself at last, indulged in a nap, with the knitting work in her lap—a nap wherein she dreamed that the fifty dollar bill had taken to itself legs and was running away from the crowd of pursuers, herself among the number.

When she was waked up, roused by the noise of coal being poured upon the stove, a candle was burning, and Mr. Dane was laughing at her.

"Why, Betsy," said he, "I thought you never were going to wake again. Here you sat, with the fire dead out, and I have had to kindle it up again."

"Bless me! I must have been asleep quite a while. But"—as she started up she saw that the old wall pocket opposite was empty—"where is that old number of the Clinkerton Clarion?"

"It was last week's paper," said Mr. Dane, calmly, "We had both of us read it, so I just took it to kindle the fire!"

"You burned it up?"

"Yes, I burned it up. Why shouldn't I?"

For half an hour Mrs. Dane sat silent and never spoke a word. And her first utterance was:

"It is the Lord's judgment upon us!"

Mrs. Dane was a resolute woman, full of character. She went to her table drawer, took out a sheet of paper and wrote to Dr. Bridgman, inclosing a dollar toward lame Dick Bodley's cart and horse. She sent another dollar to Mrs. Graham for the poor little O'Harras, and promised to donate a barrel of russets, a bushel of potatoes, and some of her husband's cast off clothes to cut over for the children. And she sent for Helen Hursh to come and see her.

"I cannot lend you ten dollars my dear," said she, "because I haven't got it. But I'll tell you what I will do. I'll let you make your home here as long as you please. There is a nice spare room, and it is an eighth of a mile nearer than Mrs. Swipes' to the district school."

"Oh, how very, very good you are!" said Helen, her eyes swimming with grateful tears.

"Good!" cried Mrs. Dane. "I am just beginning to see what a selfish, greedy creature I have been all my life. But you are welcome, my dear, and your board shall not cost you a cent."

She opened her parlor, shook out the curtains, and built a fire in the all tight wood stove."

"Dane likes the parlor because it has such nice south windows, and I do not see why we should not enjoy it."

She baked a fresh batch of gingerbread, and sent a loaf to old Mrs. Mudge; she took out a basket of hickory nuts for poor little Harry Jones, who was trying to crack dried up pig nuts on the stone by the road side; she renewed her subscription to the church charities.

"I can't be very liberal," she said; "but I am determined to do what I can."

"That is right, my dear—that is right," said her husband. "We shall be prosperous, never fear. I am awfully sorry about burning up your fifty dollar bill; but if it is going to open up your heart like this, it is the best thing that could have happened to us."

Mrs Dane was sweeping out the kitchen. She looked around with a smile as she moved the wide leaved table which always stood under the wall pocket, and took down the pocket, itself, a rude structure of splints, lined with red cambric and tied with cords and tassels of red worsted, to dust it out.

"Yes," said she, "I am afraid I was getting to be a little miserly, and—Why, what does this mean?"

Mr. Dane stopped and picked up a slip of crumbled dark-green paper, which had fallen out from the wall pocket as his wife turned the pocket upside down and tapped her finger on it to remove all possible dust.

"It's the fifty-dollar bill!" said he, with eyes and mouth wide open in unison.

"Why, it must have slipped down from the folds of the newspaper and lodged here!" said he.

"The Lord has sent it back to us," said Mrs. Dane, reverently, "and with it a lesson, to be wise and merciful."

"Well," said Mr. Dane, after a moment or two of silence, "there's a lesson in everything He does, if we did but know it."

And all the theologians in the world could not have improved upon the faith of this simple, unlettered, old farmer.—Saturday Night.

Unseen Helpers.

"Take, oh boatman, thrice thy fee,
Take—I give it willingly,
For invisible to thee
Spirits twain have crossed with me."

"Can you give me a day's work?" asked a poor woman of a well-to-do matron.

"You look very delicate," said the lady. "I need some one to wash, but you do not seem strong enough for the work."

"Oh, yes'm; only try me and you will see. I have been sick and got behind hand, and my children need bread; besides, Charlie will help carry the water and lift the tubs," concluded the woman eagerly.

"Who is Charlie?" asked the lady of the house.

"My husband, ma'am," was the low answer.

The woman was engaged, and did her work well, but there was something that troubled the mistress of the house greatly. As soon as she left the kitchen the woman would call Charlie, and she would hear her voice talking and laughing, and holding converse with some one, but when she went into the room there would be no one there. The water was carried, the tubs all lifted into their places, but the slight woman who washed was the only person visible. When then the lady of the house paid her she said: "Call your husband; I would like to see him."

"He wouldn't come ma'am," said the woman simply. "No one ever sees him but me."

"What do you mean?" asked the lady in astonishment.

"Why, ma'am, Charlie is dead himself, but his spirit comes and helps me; how could I work this way if it didn't; I could no more lift one of those tubs of water alone than you could, ma'am! He's come ever since I was sick and helped me that way."

The compassionate lady placed another coin with those she had already given. "For Charlie and the children," she said, with tears in her voice, and she saw afterward the sick and wearied mother was helped by living hands.

But there must be many people bearing burdens greater than they are able to, who are helped and made stronger by invisible guides—the memory of some dead Charlie, who lifts unseen the heavy load, with whom they commune as they work! How would the dull routine of daily life be glorified, could we for one moment see the angel helper at our side? When the pious monk left his duties to go out on a deed of mercy, he returned to find all his homely work done, and for one moment he saw in the door of his cell his Blessed Master smiling upon him! It may be only a vague theory, the delusion of a sick brain—and there is an infinite sadness in it—but surely

"It is a beautiful belief
That ever round our heads
Are hovering on angel wings
The spirits of the dead.

To feel that unseen hands we clasp
While feet unheard are gathering round;
To know that we in faith may grasp
Celestial guards from heavenly ground."

A Movable Mountain.

In the eastern part of Churchill county, Nevada, on the road from Wadsworth to Grantsville, and about sixty-five miles from the former place, is a sand dune, which is remarkable alike for its peculiar formation and moving propensities. As far around as the eye can reach is a vast wilderness of greasewood and stunted sagebrush, with here and there abrupt mountain ridges, or a sharp, rocky peak. The dune, or sand mountain ridge, which is about four miles in length, and covers probably a mile of greasewood in width, was, perhaps, formed by the heavy winds which prevail in that section blowing across these deserts through a natural opening in a small range of mountains, and depositing the small particles of sand that were picked up in a heap where the wind's course is disturbed and an eddy formed. In the whole dune, which is from 100 to 400 feet in height and contains millions of tons of sand, it is impossible to find a particle much larger than a pin head. It is so fine that if an ordinary barley sack be filled and placed in a moving wagon, the jolting of the vehicle would empty the sack, and yet it has no form of dust in it, and is as clean as any sea-beach sand. The mountain is so solid as to give it a musical sound when trod upon, and oftentimes a bird lighting on it, or a large lizard running across the bottom, will start a large quantity of the sand to sliding, which makes a noise resembling the vibration of telegraph wires with a hard wind blowing, but so much louder that it is often heard at a distance of six or seven miles, and is deafening to a person standing within a short distance of the sliding sand.

A peculiar feature of the dune is that it is not stationary, but rolls slowly eastward, the wind gathering it up on the west end, and carrying it along the ridge until it is again deposited at the eastern end. Mr. Monroe, the well known surveyor, having heard of the rambling habits of this mammoth sand heap, quite a number of years ago took careful bearings on it while sectionizing government lands in that vicinity. Several years later he visited the place, and found that the dune had moved something over a mile.

Conquered by a Baby.

Atlanta, (Ga) Constitution.

Once upon a time, and not very long ago at that, a young man of Atlanta fell in love with an Atlanta girl. This happens every day, and as also happens the young girl fell in love with the young man. Somehow or other the parents of the young girl frowned upon the union of these two hearts that beat as one, and they continued to frown until the young people, who were thrown upon their own resources, eloped, as young people will do, and the parental frown alluded to, instead of becoming a smile and a benediction in the presence of the inevitable, widened and deepened into bitter disapprobation. The father and mother set great store by their daughter and they were overwhelmed with grief when they discovered it at for the first time in her life she had disobeyed them. They did not seek her out for the purpose of bestowing their forgiveness.

In course of time a little baby was born to the young couple—a marvelously pretty child, we have been told—and it grew to be as cunning as it was beautiful. One day recently a lady acquainted with the facts, and intimate with both families, called upon the young mother, but found nobody at home but baby and nurse. An idea struck her and she lost no time in carrying it out. She seized the baby and bore it off in triumph to its grandmother. When she rang the door-bell at grandmother's house the lady was in a tremor, but the baby was as cool and unconcerned as a cucumber. Perhaps we ought not to say unconcerned, for when the grandmother opened the door, the baby laughed and crowed in her face, and was as saucy as you please. And wouldn't the lady come in and rest herself? Well, the lady didn't know; she was just passing, and she thought she would ring and see how all were getting along; but in she went, and presently the grandmother was admiring the baby as it sat perched, bright and buoyant, upon the lap of the lady. At this juncture the baby displayed the most exquisite diplomacy. It held out its dimpled arms to its grandmother, and was soon nestling against her motherly bosom. It laughed and crowed and cuddled, and when somebody made a pretense of taking it it cuddled the closer. What wonderful black eyes it had, to be sure! What a cunning little curl, half-hidden behind its little pink ears! What tempting little toes! What dainty little hands! Oh! a wonderful baby altogether, the grandmother thought and said.

At this critical moment the grandfather made his appearance; and this remarkable baby seemed to understand its business thoroughly. It cooed and crowed at the grandfather, found a place in his strong arms, and hid its little face in his coat collar. The grandfather was captivated. He tossed and dandled the baby, and fondled it in a way altogether unusual. Then the lady was asked whose baby it was. Her position was embarrassing. She had no idea of the result, but she made bold to tell the two old people that it was their daughter's child. With this the grandmother fell to weeping and clasped this wonderful baby to her breast, and the grandfather walked nervously around wiping his eyes and wondering why he was so foolishly happy. Nothing would do these old people but their daughter must be sent for, and such another reunion and revival as was held over that baby never before was seen in Atlanta. That we'll say and stick to it.

A carriage passed in front of the Constitution office yesterday, and in it were seated all the members of the united family. The baby had a front seat, and it was laughing and crowing and looking as pretty as a pink, and as cute—well as cute as it could look, and if any reader of the Constitution is inclined to discredit this true story, all they have to do is to ask the grandmother about it.

A Heartless Woman.

Mrs. Gardner Folsom has no particular use for Col. Folsom, with whom she is always fighting, and is one of the most heartless women in the city of Austin. Her husband was reading the morning paper yesterday, at the breakfast table, when he exclaimed, in a horrified tone of voice:

"What a terrible misfortune?"

"What is it—somebody got married?" she asked, in an indifferent manner.

"No, but a married woman in New York, in a fit of rage, threw a coffee cup at her husband. The cup was shivered into fragments, and one of them, cutting his jugular artery, he died on the spot. The reporter says the grief of the unfortunate woman was dreadful to witness. She was frantic with remorse, and made several attempts to put an end to her existence."

"Poor creature," said Mrs. Folsom, with a sigh, "I reckon the broken cup must have belonged to her China set!"—Texas Siftings.

An Oyster Yarn.

I never found anything but once here in excess of my expectations, or even approaching them, and that was the New York oysters. I had just then come from California; where oysters are very small and unimportant, not to say insignificant, and I had often eaten a hundred there at a time, and had always felt that I could eat more if I had them. So when I arrived at the Metropolitan Hotel I ordered my dinner to be served in my room, and told the waiter to bring with my dinner a cup of strong coffee and one hundred raw oysters. He looked at me a moment and then said:

"Did I understand you to say 100 oysters?"

"Yes," I answered: "raw, on the half shell, with vinegar; no lemons; and as soon as you can, for I am hungry."

"Ahem! miss, do you want 100?"

"Yes, I do, what are you waiting for? Must I pay for them in advance? I want nice large ones."

"No, no, miss, all right, you shall have them," and he went out.

I continued my writing, and forgot all about my dinner till he knocked and came in with my dinner on a tray, but no oysters.

"How is this?" said I. There are no oysters."

"Dey's comin,' miss, dey's comin," and the door opened and in filed three more sons of Afric's burning sands, each with a big tray of oysters on half shell. I was staggered, but only for a moment, for I saw the waiters were grinning, so I calmly directed them to place one on a chair, one on the wash stand, and one on the bed, and said:

"They are very small, aren't they?"

"Oh! no, miss, de berry largest we'ze got."

"Very well," said I, "you can go. If I want any more I'll ring."

When they got out into the hall one said to the other:

"Fore God, Jo, if she eats all dem oysters she's a dead woman."

I did not feel hungry any longer. I drank my coffee and looked at the oysters, every one of them as big as my hand, and they all seemed looking at me with their horrible white faces, and out of their one diabolical eye, until I could not have eaten one any more than I could have carved up a live baby. They leered at me, and seemed to dare me to attack them. Our California oysters are small, and with no more individual character about them than grains of rice, but these detestable creatures were instinct with evil intentions, and I dared not swallow one for fear of the disturbance he might raise in my interior, so I set about getting rid of them, for I was never going to give up beaten before those waiters. I hung a dress over the key-hole after I locked the door, and just outside my window I found a tin water spout that had a hole in it. I carefully enlarged it, and then slid every one of those beastly creatures down one by one—one hundred and two of them—they all the time eying me with that cold, pastry look of malignity. When the last one was out of sight I stopped trembling, and finished my dinner in peace, and then rang for the waiters. You should have seen them! One of the waiters asked if I would have some more. May he never know the infernal pang he inflicted upon me, but I replied, calmly:

"Not now, I think too many at once might be hurtful."

Work of Invisible Ink.

Le Bosnys, the tramp who married a widow in Essex county, N. Y., recently, to obtain her property and then murdered her, is still in the jail at Elizabethtown. That he is an ingenious fellow is shown by the following: He wrote an ordinary letter and handed it, open, to the Sheriff, asking him to mail it to the address in New York. It became accidentally mislaid, and, several days afterward, the Sheriff was astonished on reverting to it, to find another complete letter in green ink, written between the lines. It showed the prisoner and his correspondent to be members of a communist society, and suggested plans of escape threatening to the Sheriff and asking aid. It was discovered afterward that the miscreant had procured, by some means, Paris green and vinegar, which formed a liquid whose traces were at first invisible, and, by lapse of time, developed these characters.

POLITICAL EXCITEMENT CAUSES A GREENBACKER TO BECOME A RAVING MANIAC.—PITTSBURG, November 13.—A special from Erie, Pa., says: Wm. M. Cavoy, the well known greenbacker, has become a raving maniac since the last election. He was intensely interested in the contest, working day and night for Armstrong, his favorite candidate for governor. When the news of Pattison's election was received he was sadly disappointed. To-day his actions became so strange that it was deemed advisable to place him in the custody of the police. He was no sooner behind his cell than he began foaming at the mouth and tearing at the bars, which he twisted like twigs. During his ravings he cursed Beaver and Pattison for defeating Armstrong. When the warden with his deputies went to secure him he held them at bay with an iron bar for a long time. There is little hope of his recovery.

——William Macahoy, of Erie, has gone crazy over his disappointment at the result of the election. He belonged to the labor party.

Influence of the Soil on Health.

The influence of the soil upon the health of those living upon it is brought out very plainly during the prevalence of epidemic diseases. That malarial diseases (like intermittent fevers) originate from the soil is already accepted; and recent investigations show pretty conclusively that the germs of cholera, abdominal typhus, yellow fever and the plague are in some way connected with the soil, which is daily corroborated by letters from all parts of the country, stating the marvellous effect Peruna has on those diseases, and in their convalescent state. John E Courtney, of Corry, Pa. Says: I am still getting better, thanks to your Peruna and Manalin. See page 24 in "Ills of Life."

THE GIRLS ARE GOOD ENOUGH.—We have often noticed that the young man who shrieks most frequently and shrilly for an improvement in the character of our women both mentally and physically, is usally a little half-crank, spindle-shanked and lantern-jawed cuss, weighing about one hundred pounds, who hasn't sense enough of his own to get off the track when the cars are coming. Let's have no more of such nonsense. The girls and women of to-day are a great deal too good for the deserts of the average man. When you hear a man growling about the depreciation of the gentler sex, set him down as a nincompoop.

Some Gypsy Lore.

The day of the week on which you are born is the best to commence business. Friday and Tuesday are the luckiest for woman; though woman fairly shudders over regarding Friday a lucky day. Sundays and Mondays are the best for April, June or November, and avoid the 11th for any kind of an enterprise. The lucky days for business are the three first days of the moon's age; for marriage, the 7th, 9th and 12th. Ask favors on the 14th, 15th and 17th, but beware of the 16th and 21st. These are all the moon's age. To answer letters choose an odd day of the moon; to travel on land choose the increase, and for ocean the decrease of the moon. Start new buildings in March. Don't marry on your birthday or on any martyr's day.

"Which are some of the most prominent signs of events, as it were, that cast their shadows before?" the reporter asked, realizing that he was getting enough "points" to set up as a fortune teller himself.

"Thousands of them," answered Celia, "but I can't think of many now. Here is one that I have never known to fail: If you meet a white horse, if you are going on particular business, it means success. If it is a piebald horse, it means that whatever you have asked for will be given you." Another: If a pigeon that does not belong to you flies in your house it means success. If it rests on a bed, death. If there are two pigeons, there will be a wedding. Never tell a dream before breakfast. The same dream three times is friendly warning. Had William the IId and the Duke of Buckingbam paid attention to this they would have escaped death as they did."

"How about cards? Do you ever use them?"

"Sometimes; but the planets and stars have much more to do with us. As we are born we are controlled. Planetary influence is a thing the scientists of later days laugh at, but who can say they are better informed than the astrologers of old. For myself I depend more on the science of astrology than on cards, though palmistry helps out."

BEDFORD, Nov. 12.—Jacob Wenner, a German tramp, attempted to hang himself near town, on Wednesday, but was detected and cut down. He was then taken to the almshouse and yesterday morning was found dead, suspended by a strap to the bars of his cell. Nothing was known of him, except that he claimed to have relatives in Harrisburg and St. Louis. He said that disappointment over the result of the elections was the cause of his suicide.

——A. C. Johnson, manager of the consolidated refining company, at Petrolia, fell into a condenser filled with boiling water on Saturday, and was scalded to death.

Faunce for Speaker.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—At a meeting of the democratic members of the legislature from this city to-day a resolution to present John E. Faunce as a candidate for speaker was adopted with the understanding that it did not pledge the members present. William C. Bullitt suggested that the delegation should endeavor to have civil service reform inaugurated at the outstart by the retention of capable and worthy clerks, but Mr. Donahue expressed his unqualified opposition and the subject was dropped.

WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY & LIVER CURE

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations are without. Hence, to cure the disease the Cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just principles. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

95 Per Cent.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of imposters, imitations and connections said to be just as good.

For Diabetes, ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE. For sale by all dealers.

A Lady Cured of Rheumatism.

Baltimore, Md., May 7, 1880.
My health was much shattered by Rheumatism when I commenced taking Brown's Iron Bitters, and I scarcely had strength enough to attend to my daily household duties. I am now using the third bottle and I am regaining strength daily, and I cheerfully recommend it to all.
I cannot say too much in praise of it. MRS. MARY E. BRASHEAR, 173 Prestman st.

Kidney Disease Cured.

Christiansburg, Va., 1881.
Suffering from kidney disease, from which I could get no relief, I tried Brown's Iron Bitters, which cured me completely. A child of mine, recovering from scarlet fever, had no appetite and did not seem to be able to eat at all. I gave him Iron Bitters with the happiest results.
J. KYLE MONTAGUE.

Heart Disease.

Vine St., Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 2, 1881.
After trying different physicians and many remedies for palpitation of the heart without receiving any benefit, I was advised to try Brown's Iron Bitters. I have used two bottles and never found anything that gave me so much relief.
MRS. JENNIE HESS.

A Woman's Suicide.

EASTON, November 16.—Mrs. Stark, wife of William Stark, a painter, of Phillipsburg, N. J., died at her residence at two o'clock this morning from an overdose of opium, taken it is believed, with a suicidal intent. The particulars gleaned at the house and from parties who are acquainted with the facts are as follows: Mrs Stark tried to procure arsenic at a Phil'insburg drug store last Tuesday, but the druggist, being suspicious, would not sell her the poison. Yesterday at noon a painter, who works for Stark, discovered Mrs. Stark lying on a bed with a small bottle near by. Later in the afternoon a neighbor called, saw her lying on the bed and aroused her. Mrs. Stark got up, seemingly very drowsy, and chatted some time. When Mr. Stark returned home in the evening for supper, he found his wife lying on the bed in a stupid condition and her face very much discolored. Dr. L. D. Birber was hastily sent for, who upon arriving, said she had evidently taken poison.

Lace Robberies.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—Edwin Jacques, his wife and Charles Smith were arrested to-day for the robbery of laces, etc., to the value of $3,000, from the store of Jones & McCaulley, 234 Church street, last night, and much of the property recovered. Numerous other robberies committed in this city, Chicago and New York, aggregating about $40,000 are attributed to them. Wagon loads of plunder have been found at their residence in West Philadelphia and it is supposed that much of the plunder has been sent to a "fence" in New York, as the prisoners have been seen at the depot shipping articles to that city. Jacks or Jacques, as he is also called, and other prisoners will have a hearing to-morrow.

Fall of an Elevator.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 16.—At 11.45 to-day the passenger elevator in McKnight's carpet house, on Main containing five passengers, fell from the second floor to the basement below, seriously injuring four of the passengers, and painfully wounding a fifth. Their names are Capt. W. C. Hite, of Louisville, compound fracture of left leg and simple fracture of right leg; Captain John Howard, of Jeffersonville, small bone of left leg fractured and right ankle injured; Judge B. F. Hardinsburg, Breckenridge county, Kentucky, painfully bruised, no bones yet found broken; C. F. Frerner, a salesman with McKnigh, badly bruised, and K. Dye, another salesman, ankle joint fractured and probably rib broken.

Pope a Major General.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Star to-night says: "The democrats, it is understood, will make a bitter fight in the senate against the confirmation of General Pope to be major general. The friends of Fitz John Porter accuse Pope of instigating the overthrow of Porter, and this, together with Pope's well known anti-democratic principles, will, it is thought, combine all the democrats against him. He has, too, a few enemies in the republican party and it is said three republican senators will vote against him."

Secretary Folger's Decision.

WASHINGTON, November 17.—Secretary Folger has formally decided to allow holders of 3 per cent. bonds of large denominations to exchange them in corresponding amounts for bonds of smaller denominations, provided such holders are willing to waive any rights they may have founded upon priority of numbers and to take newly numpered bonds.

Collision.

TROY, N. Y., November 17.—During the prevalence of a fog this morning two freight trains on the Troy and Boston railroad collided and a locomotive and thirteen cars were derailed. Emery Elwell, a brakeman, was instantly killed.

Burglars Arrested.

DALLAS, Texas, November 19.—The city marshal was telegraphed to Friday night from Sherman to arrest three men, whom the telegram described. At a late hour a patrolman arrested one of the trio, an old man aged 62, and locked him up. Saturday morning he requested an interview with Marshal Arnold. He told the marshal that he was square, and if he would give him a chance to escape he would pay him handsomely. He said he had no money with him, but if he would go with him to his pals it would be all right. Seeing an opportunity to bag the whole gang Mr. Arnold assented, provided there was enough money in it. With this the old man grew confidential and said he was a member of a band of professionals and that if he (the marshal) would let them work the town they would whack up handsomely. This Arnold also assented to. The old man took him to Mayor's beer hall and introduced him to his pals as one who would do to depend on. The two pals were well-dressed young men and the two described in the Sherman telegram. They were glad to welcome Arnold to the gang and handed him a $10 bill as a starter. He said that was too small. They replied that if he could put up with it then they would give him $100 the next morning. There was a cattle man in town they would work for $200 and one of the number would work the train that night. They further said that they made a big haul at Sherman Friday, but lost it at faro. At this stage of the game Arnold, who had taken the precaution of stationing four policemen at the door, drew a pistol and said he wanted all of them. One of the young men sprang for the door and was gone, Arnold firing two shots at him before he reached the door. The four officers on the outside opened upon him, but he ran on amid the shower of bullets. Some officers ran in front of him and succeeded in running him over an embankment, when he was caught. They gave their names as C. Edwards, William Davis and Henry McBride. Davis is known to have planned a big robbery at Henderson, Texas, eighteen months ago. A registered letter receipt was found on Edwards, showing that he had sent money to his wife at Omaha. On the back of the receipt was a memorandum, which stated that a certain lock could be opened with a Wheeler key. Edwards also had two checks on the First national bank of Parsons, Kansas, dated November 11. Davis is indentified as a man who robbed the St. George hotel a year ago.

An Unprecedented Storm.

PHILADELPHIA, November 17.—It is raining here this morning and at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Milwaukee and snowing at Boston, Albany and Buffalo. A magnetic storm interferes seriously with the working of the telegraph cables and land lines.

NEW YORK, November 17.—The magnetic storm prevails throughout the entire country and is said to be the fiercest known for a long time. The electrical disturbance has now resulted in a complete stoppage of telegraphic communication. Reports from New England say: "A heavy snow storm set in this morning and the ground is now covered to the depth of several inches."

INDIANAPOLIS, November 17.—The electrical disturbances here commenced at 8 o'clock this morning. They were such as to charge the wires and the batteries were removed. At times they presented great change of polarity in a brief period. The use of the quadruplex system had to be abandoned for a time and a metalic circuit was found to work without the disturbance of current reversals.

CHICAGO, November 17.—The officials of the Western Union telegraph company here say the electric disturbances in this country to-day are the most pronounced and wide spread experienced for years, if indeed they have been paralleled, in some respects, at any time. An electric storm of the greatest violence ranging in all the territory from a point beyond Omaha, and from Kansas City north to the terminus of telegraph service over the entire area. It first begun to be felt about 4 o'clock this morning, and increased in intensity till 9.45, when communication from every direction was cut off.

A Boiler Bursts in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, November 16.—A boiler on the premises of Peter R. Euhl & Co., picture frame manufacturers, on Sycamore street, burst this afternoon, causing a panic among the occupants of the upper stories of the building. The building was set on fire and the floor above the engine was blown to pieces and parts of the wall blown out. Lewis Meyer, the helper of the foreman, was thrown into the street and fatally injured; Frank Bitner, one of the employes, was badly scalded, and Christ Geise, Albert Port and Frank Weiss were slightly injured.

A Circus Employe Murdered.

LITTLE ROCK, November 15.—During the performance of Cole's circus at Lonoke, on the Memphis and Little Rock railroad, on Tuesday night, the doorkeeper, Michael Longmire, was shot fatally by one of a party of ten whom the police were attempting to put out of the canvas for refusing to produce tickets. The shot is believed to have been fired by Ezra King, of Lonoke, who escaped. Longmire's remains were brought to Little Rock this morning. He lived near Des Moines, Iowa, and leaves a wife and three children.

Mrs. Melville.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Melville, the wife of the engineer of the Arctic ship Jeannette, who was placed in the Norristown insane hospital by her husband a few days after his arrival home, was released from the institution on Friday evening and is now at her home at Sharon Hill with her two youngest daughters, who have been with her during the period of her restraint. It became early manifest to the authorities of the hospital that although at the time of her admission Mrs. Melville, according to the certificate of two physicians, was suffering from the nervous effects of alcoholic preparations and was a subject for treatment in such a hospital, she was different from the other patients. They accordingly allowed her to spend her time as she pleased with the children and permitted her to leave the institution whenever she wanted to, under parole to return the same day. She treated her honor paroles with inviolable sacredness and won the good opinion of every one around the institution. Very quietly some of the lady's friends took the necessary preliminary measures and had a commission in lunacy appointed to examine into her case. A careful inquiry was made and the decision arrived at that she was not a fit subject for such an institution. She was accordingly released and looking quite happy she drove nome in a carriage with her little girls. Engineer Melville, by the advice of his friends, has made some temporary provision for her support. Mr. Melville has removed Maud, the oldest daughter, to Brooklyn.

A Troublesome Time Anticipated.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The following is an extract from a letter received on Saturday by a gentleman connected with the state department from an attache of the Chinese legation here under the administration of Chin Lan Pin. It is thought to be particularly significant in connection with the recent vigorous protest of the American minister at the court of the emperor of China touching the violations by the Chinese of the rights of American merchants and shipping at Shanghai: "It is rumored here that the legation of China in the United States will shortly be ordered home in consequence of the passage of the recent Chinese bill and that in place of a minister you are to have simply a consul. I was very anxious to visit the United States again, but the coming attitude of my country will not permit me to do so. The passage of that bill has produced a very unfavorable impression here and the outlook for the shipping interests of the United States is anything but satisfactory. I trust that a better understanding of the mutual interests of both countries may soon be reached." The letter from which the foregoing extract is made was written from Hong Kong under date of September 5 last. Its author's position in the diplomatic service of China is such as to enable him to be intelligently informed upon the subject on which he writes.

Fatal Explosion at Allentown.

ALLENTOWN, Nov. 17.—An explosion occurred at noon to-day in the nitre vault at the Cold Springs powder works, several miles south of this city. C. C. Welsh, superintendent, who entered the vault shortly before the explosion, is missing, and it is believed that he has been killed. Search is being made for his body.

LATER.—The explosion resulted in the destruction of property amounting to $300 and the blowing to atoms of the body of Superintendent Welsh. Diligent search has been made for his remains, but only a few pieces of flesh and clothing can be found. He was tapping nitro glycerine when the explosion occurred, but what caused it is unknown.

Potters Go to Work.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 15.—A dispatch from East Liverpool, Ohio, says the strike of the potters against the Knights of Labor is believed to be nearing its end. Wallace & Chetuynds started up this morning with all their old hands, who signed a contract, ignoring all committees and outside influences in the settlement of the difficulties. The men will be allowed to remain in the Knights of Labor organization, but will settle troubles occurring between themselves and their employers without consulting the order. It is thought the other potteries will soon follow.

An Informer's Story.

DUBLIN, November 17.—It is stated that an informer has communicated to the government full particulars of the murder of the two Huddys, Lord Araillaun's bailiffs, whose bodies were found in Loughmaske. Three persons are in custody charged with the murder, who will be tried in Dublin.

A Missouri Railroad Wreck.

LITTLE ROCK, November 16.—Last night as an extra north bound freight train on the St. Louis and Iron Mountain railroad was ascending Hogan's Mountain, in Missouri, it broke in two and the rear portion descended the mountain at the rate of sixty miles an hour. An engine which had been pushing the train started back, but was soon overtaken and completely wrecked. The engineer had his wrist injured and is badly hurt. The fireman's feet are crushed and his head injured, and a breakman was hurt internally.

Burned to Death.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—A fire occurred to-day in a school house near Quimperen. Nine children were burned to death.

Plunging Into a Furnace.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., November 19.—William H. Cunningham, a workman at the Birmingham rolling mills, yesterday morning, left his work, walked over to the Alice blast furnace, ascended to the mouth of the stack and awaited the moment for charging. When the bell was raised he threw off his hat and leaped headformost into the furnace. The deceased was 40 years old and leaves a wife and three children. He was formerly of Kentucky. He had been low spirited for several days, but had not been drinking.

Determined to Strike.

PITTSBURGH, November 15.—The railroad coal miners of the Pittsburgh district in convention to-day unanimously resolved to strike on November 20, unless the operators concede them an advance of ½ cent per bushel for mining. The present rate is 3½ cents per bushel. The strike which failed last summer was against a reduction from 4 to 3½ cents, and the miners believe that the heavy demand at this season of the year will compel the operators to grant the increase.

Printers on a Strike.

LONDON, November 13.—The printers in this city working on newspapers have entered on a strike for higher wages. Some of the papers have conceded to the demand made by the strikers and work is progressing as usual. In general, however, the proprietors have stood out and the printers being equally firm there is a dead-lock at the cases.

A Brute's Crime.

COLCONDA, November 14.—At Dixon Springs yesterday, while eating dinner, William Phelps, a worthless character, became incensed at his 6-year-old daughter for crying and knocked her from the table. He then kicked her to death. He fled but his neighbors are pursuing him and will lynch him if he is captured.

Railroad Accident.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 13.—A fast train on the New York Central, leaving New York at 10.30 this morning, while passing Peekskill, ran into a locomotive which was crossing the track. The engine and a drawing room car of the fast train were hurled from the track and three passengers were injured.

A Freight Conductor Killed.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 16.—By a collision of freight trains at Billerica to-day Conductor Clark was killed and Robert Haines, brakeman, dangerously burned with oil of vitroil from broken carboys.

An Ex-Lieutenant Governor Dead.

CHELSEA, Vt., Nov. 17.—Ex-Lieutenant Governor Burnham Martin died to-day, aged 71 years. He had served with honor in both branches of the legislature.

The Westphalia's Passengers.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The passengers of the steamer Westphalia have arrived at Hamburg.

—Butter sells at 30 cents per pound in the city of Lock Haven, but the unfortunate denizens of Bellefonte—a country town—are compelled to pay 35 cents a pound for it—or do without.

—We heard on Friday that one thousand dollar counterfeit bills were in circulation, which caused us to examine the bills in our pocket book very carefully. Most of them were unreceipted wash bills.

—The Burnside-Lauth wedding and the Democratic demonstration at Howard occurred on the same day, but we do not believe that the arrangements were made for them with any special reference to each other.

—Buckwheat cakes and molasses are both possible in their highest excellence by purchasing of Harry Teats & Co. That is, you can buy the buckwheat meal and then convert it into steaming hot cakes.

The Juniata Valley Editorial Association.

The printers' association of the Juniata Valley, which met in this place on the first of September last, is now a thing of the past, that gathering being the last in its history. In consequence of the fact that the privileges which the organization extended were abused it was not considerd advisable to continue it, and in its stead an editorial association was organized at Huntingdon on Saturday last. The meeting for that purpose was held at the Leister House, in that place, the following named editors being in attendance:

H. C. Dern, Altoona Tribune; E. Conrad, McVeytown Journal; Edward T. Tuten, Bellefonte Republican; W. W. Trout, Lewistown Free Press; George Shrom, Newport Ledger: Harry E. Bowman, Mount Union Times; L. A. Frazer, Houtzdale Observer; C. S. W. Jones, Tyrone Herald; W. C. Smith, Bedford Republican; Hugh Lindsay, Local News; John A. Nash, Journal; S. E. Fleming and Port Crawford, Monitor; Frank Willoughby, Globe, Huntingdon.

The meeting was called to order by E. Conrad. H. C. Dern was chosen president of the meeting and George Shrom Secretary.

On motion, a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Lindsay, Tuten and Trout, were appointed to draft a constitution and report at 2 o'clock. The same committee were also directed to nominate permanent officers.

On motion the meeting adjourned until afternoon.

The meeting was called to order at 1:30, when the committee reported a constitution which was adopted.

Article 3 states that the object of the association shall be to promote the business and financial interests of the members of the newspaper fraternity, by mutual interchange of views to protect each other against dishonest advertising agents and fraudulent advertisers generally; and to cultivate and maintain friendly relations among its members.

The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, H. C. Dern; vice president, Geo. Shrom; secretary, E. Conrad; treasurer, John A. Nash; executive committee, C. S. W. Jones, W. W. Trout and Hugh Lindsay.

On motion the secretary was instructed to have the constitution printed and send a copy to each office in the district, with the request that those persons entitled to become members of the association sign the same and return it to the secretary, accompanied by the annual fee of one dollar.

On motion of Mr. Smith the president was directed to call a meeting of the association at the request of five members.

—Young or old married folks who are just going to housekeeping will do well to purchase their groceries of Sechler.

—The "Week of Prayer" at the beginning of each year, although not observed as extensively as formerly is still in great favor among many of the churches and religious associations. The Evangelical Alliance, by its representatives throughout the world, has already issued the invitation and programme for the week of prayer, commencing January 7, 1883. The subjects include thanksgiving, prayer for the church universal, for families, for the nation and for missions. Special reference is also made to education, intemperance and the opium traffic.

Burnside-Lauth.

Thursday morning at 7 o'clock a quiet wedding occurred in the Roman Catholic chapel at Howard, the high contracting parties being Mr. Cameron Burnside, of Philadelphia, and Miss Cinnie Laugh, daughter of Bernard Lauth, of Howard, Rev. Father Farren, of Tyrone, being the celebrant. We congratulate the handsome groom and his lovely bride on the consummation of so desirable a union. May their wedded life be full of joy and prosperity.

—Women should realize that it is as great an accomplishment to know how to cook well and to understand the art of housekeeping as it is to know how to embroider or to paint or thump the piano. A law of nature seems to have ordained that man supply the raw material for the dinner and that the wife shall cook it. Failure on on either side to be able to do this is equally responsible.

—Two competent grocerymen and a large room stocked with the best groceries will make "Rome howl." That is what they are doing at the store of Harry Teats & Co. The miniature Rome—as Bellefonte is sometimes called—is howling in ecstacy of joy over the excellence of the groceries.

—Saturday afternoon was lovely and the ladies were all out promenading.

Neighborhood News Notes.

Dr. Wm. Hepburn and his brother R. Hope Hepburn, of Williamsport, departed for Europe on Wednesday of last week.

Harry J. McAteer, ex-representative from Huntingdon, is mentioned for the clerkship of the House.

Rev. F. Rogerson, a Methodist divine and a graduate of Dickinson Seminary, Williamsport, died at York a few days ago.

The Clearfield county lumbermen are preparing for the winter's work. A large number of teams have already gone to the mountains.

Hollidaysburg Methodists are erecting a new church and expect to have it ready for occupancy by the first of January, '83.

Altoona Democrats are organizing a club for the sole purpose of participating in the inaugural ceremonies at Harrisburg on the 16th of January.

Persons addressing letters to Altoona hereafter will facilitate their delivery by including in the address the name of the street and number of the house to which their communications are to be delivered.

—Prof. Asa T. Green, of Troy, Ohio, is endowed with a remarkable memory. So wonderful is this power that he is able to repeat a sermon almost verbatim after once hearing it. He has gained his almost limitless knowledge by wonderful study and is an object of much admiration to all who converse with him. His company is universally sought by college professors, teachers, citizens and others. Whatever he sees or reads he can remember accurately for an indefinite time and his conversation is full of instruction. To hear him relate incidents of long ago is interesting in the extreme. He is familiar with the history of all nations and it is particularly interesting to a native of Centre county to hear him relate the history of Sechler's grocery store. He tells of what crowds of people have patronized the store, of the remarkably large stocks of goods that have from time to time been received, and of the low prices that have distinguished it from other similar places of business. Sechler's meat market, he says, is but a modern institution but deservedly popular, nevertheless. Go to Sechler's store for first-class groceries and meat.

—Edward Corcilius, an insane resident North Houtzdale, strayed into the woods on Sunday, October 29, and nothing was known as to his fate until Sunday, the 12th instant. It appears that on the Saturday previous to his discovery two boys were in the the woods searching for cows, when, seeing the dead body of a man, they became frightened and ran away. When they reached Houtzdale they related their adventure and on Sunday morning a search party started out, finding the body of Corcilius. A coroner's inquest was held over his remains, resulting in the decision that he came to his death through exhaustion.

—The great auroral storm which swept over the country last week touched this place very slightly. By the way, did any of our friends observe any traces of the brilliant aurora borealis displays which have been rendering the heavens in some sections splendid panoramas of gorgeous coloring during the nights of the past week? If they were visible here our vision failed to perceive them. They are said to be intimately related to the electric storm which prevailed.

—The frame structure known as the "lock up" is to be removed from its present site to the lot upon which the water works building is located. Instead of removing the old building why not build a stone structure? The lock-up is an institution which will always be needed and a stone building will answer the purpose much better. It will be indestructible by fire and will last longer.

—We'll bet a handsome sum that the pavement on the High street side of the Brockerhoff House will be completed before the one in front of the Centre County Bank, although operations were begun on the latter several days before anything was done to the former.

—Coal merchants are not at all satisfied with the prospect of an open winter. If there are any more Vennors or Democratic victories to bring about such seasons in the future they threaten to organize an expedition to the North pole.

—The fountain in Bellefonte's beautiful spring sends forth its crystal spray and as it descends upon the circular rod surrounding the pedestal the frigid air congeals it into ice, forming innumerable icicles which present a beautiful appearance.

—Do not neglect to visit Harry Teats & Co.'s store when you come to Bellefonte.

—Husband comes
Home at night,
Gets a kiss
That's all right.

Playful wife
On his knee
Sits and talks,
Waiting tea.

Sudden start!
And a stare,
On his coat
Sees a hair!

Color red—
Hers is black—
Sobs and tears,
Fury, 'thwack!

Husband goes
Out at night,
Won't come back
'Till he's tight.

District Returns.

The Congressional and Senatorial return judges for the districts in which Centre county is included, viz: the 20th Congressional and the 34th Senatorial, met in this place on the 14th and presented their reports. They partook of an elegant collation at the residence of Ex-Governor Curtin, after which J. H. Laverty, Esq., of Clinton county, presented the fortunate Congressman his certificate of election in a neat speech. Mr. Curtin responded fittingly and made strong promises of giving his constituents an honest, able representation in the National House of Representatives. Below are the county returns:

The pernicious effects caused by dime novel reading and the presentation on the stage of such blood and thunder dramas as "Buffalo Bill," "Jesse James, the Bandit King," and so on, are seen in St. Louis. The children in a certain portion of that city organized a Coalshed Grand Theatre Comique, and a few days ago represented a hanging scene in which the candidates for the rope—two children of A. G. Schmidt, butcher—were almost strangled, and but for the timely arrival of their father on the scene they might have died in consequence of their hazardous sport. He cut the ropes and put the coalshed audience to flight, and vowed never to permit such proceedings upon his property again. There are many children in Centre county who are disposed to model after the same sensational examples which prove so attractive to the young folks of St. Louis, but their parents and guardians should teach them to grow up virtuous and wise and to purchase all their groceries at Sechler's store. This last lesson is especially important. Their future happiness and comfort depends more than thoughtless persons imagine upon the groceries they consume, and Sechler keeps nothing but the purest of the pure. Try his store and be convinced.

—An exchange says: Invent occupations for your sons. Stimulate their ambitions in worthy directions. While you make home their delight, fill them with higher purposes than mere pleasure. Whether they shall pass happy boyhood, and enter upon manhood with refined tastes and noble ambitions, depends on you. Do not blame miserable bar keepers if your sons miscarry. Believe it possible that with exertion and right means, a mother may have more control over the destiny of her boys than any other influence whatever.

—Mr. John DeLong, of Sugar Valley, Clinton county, called at the REPUBLICAN office on Monday. He is a somewhat remarkable person, being over ninety years old, but as active and sprightly as a man of only fifty. He does not look at all aged and those who pass him on the street would not imagine that he had lived so long in this world. He pronounces the result of the late election the most remarkable political event ever experienced in this country.

—Rev. R. Crittenden's address before the Clinton county Sunday-school convention at Salona, on Thursday, contained numerous excellent points on the important subject, "Mistakes of the Sunday School." He considers it a mistake for any Sunday school to neglect the memorizing of Scripture regularly; to offer prizes which only a few can gain; to buy cheap lesson papers merely because they are the cheapest, and to make an indiscriminate presentation of gifts at a Sunday school festival.

—The choicest cigars ever offered for sale in Bellefonte may be purchased of Harry Green.

—It is an imposition to be required to pay 35 cents per pound for butter.

IT was one of the mysteries of the Ohio campaign of 1880 why the Democrats claimed that State so persistently when the election showed that they had no ground upon which to base such a statement. The Cincinnati Enquirer's Indianapolis correspondent sheds a little light upon the matter. He says: "In Ohio the Democrats have not had a perfect poll of the State since 1876. In 1880 they had a mock poll, which was fixed up to make Barnum and the New-York leaders believe that it was possible to carry Ohio. Upon this representation $100,000 was sent out ten days before the election, and for all the good it did it might have been thrown into the fire." The fact that they pulled the wool over Chairman Barnum's eyes to the tune of $100.000 no doubt more than compensated the Ohio Democrats for the loss of the State and the defeat of Hancock.

POPE BARROW, who has been elected to fill the unexpired term of the late Benjamin H. Hill in the United States senate, from Georgia, is a native of Oglethrope county, and comes of an excellent family. Alfred H. Colquitt, who was chosen for the full term, is a young man and of an illustrious family, his father having been in the senate before him.

THE report that Mr. W. W. Corcoran, of Washington, was seriously ill, having overworked himself in arranging for bringing John Howard Payne's remains to America, is now declared to be without foundation. The aged philanthropist is in capital health and spirits, and enjoys a long horseback ride every day.

PE-RU-NA

Is a new remedy, originally compounded and introduced to the medical profession, and then to the public at large, by S. B. Hartman, M. D. He has prescribed it to over 40,000 patients with the most gratifying results.

Its effect upon the system is entirely unlike that of any other remedy, and is the only medicine needed in almost every disease to which flesh is heir. (In Constipation, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, MANALIN should be given with it.

PERUNA is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, each one, according to medical authors, a great remedy in itself.

Dr. Hartman has succeeded in extracting and combining the active principles of these ingredients into one simple compound, which perfectly coincides with the VIS MEDICATRIX NATURA in every disease, and a cure necessarily follows. There is not an organ it will not reach nor a disease it will not cure.

Take Notice!

It is very important to be prepared for cold weather, to have your winter clothing at hand, your overcoat ready to put on at a moment's warning, your house full of coal, and your furnace ready to light. In this matter, to be forewarned is to be forearmed. What does every event of life teach, but to be always ready for cold weather? What a calamity to be frozen to death! Who was ever frozen and then thawed out that survived the process? Cold is dangerous even in moderately cold weather. People have been frost bitten, or "caught cold" and had a fearful disturbance with their circulatory functions. Be warned in time! Make haste! Stand not upon the order of your going, but go at once to the Boston Clothing House, just opened, in Reynolds' Block, opposite Brockerhoff House, Bellefonte, Pa., and get supplied with warm winter clothing, boots, shoes, hats and caps.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Finding Dynamite.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 13.—A profound sensation was caused here yesterday by the finding of dynamite in hazardous places. At the International distillery in the morning a letter was received by Wm. Smith, one of the foremen, handed to him by his son, another foremen, which read:

"Mr. Smith:—Dear Sir: There are fifty pounds of dynamite in the masher. It will explode at 140° Fahrenheit or a slight jar will explode it. Warn the men, but don't show this letter to anyone. This is no boy's play. We mean business. If you follow instructions there will be no danger to any one when it is all taken out but to Babbitt."

Mr. Kidd, owner of the distillery, was notified and a search party found several cylinders of dynamite in the ingress and egress pipes of the engine. To-day the whole building was carefully gone over and nine more packages, weighing eight and one-half ounces each, were found. Various warnings scrawled with chalk were also found on the walls. One arrest was made to-day and warrants have been issued for others. It seems that Mr. Kidd and Babbitt & Co., the latter owning mashers and leasing them to be used on a percentage, had a dispute about the yield of the distillery, and Babbitt & Co., undertook to remove the mashers, but the difficulty, it was understood, had been smoothed over. Mr. Kidd now suspects Babbitt as being in the plot and has sworn out a warrant for his arrest. There is a good deal of mystery about the affair, and the end is not yet.

Collision at Sea.

PORTSMOUTH, November 13.—The steamship Westphalia from New York for Hamburg, collided with another steamer off Beachy Head early this morning. A boat was lowered from the Westphalia and sent in search of the other steamer. This boat is now missing. The Westphalia is making water rapidly. She will be docked to-morrow morning. A steamer has been sent to search for the unknown steamer.

LATER.—It is believed that the missing steamer was sunk with all on board. The boat of the Westphalia, which is also missing, contained an officer and six men. It was intensely dark at the time of the collision. The Westphalia had ninety passengers on board at the time of the collision. Besides a large hole in the port bow, extending below the water line, there are several small holes on the starboard bow. The collision bulkhead was stove in. Both steam and marine pumps had to be kept going from 1.30 o'clock in the morning, when the collision occurred, until the vessel reached Portsmouth this afternoon. The other steamer could not stop. Capt. Ludwig made ready all of the Westphalia's boats for launching in the event of the water gaining and made for Portsmouth. The mails and passengers have been landed and will be forwarded to Hamburg by the German vice consul. It is not thought that the cargo is damaged; the wind is northeast and is blowing hard.

Explosion of a Boiler.

CLEVELAND, November 14.—At half-past 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the main boiler in the Forest City iron works at Newburg suddenly exploded, killing three men and fatally wounding as many more. The mill was almost entirely wrecked, the roof being blown off and a great deal of valuable machinery damaged. Fire broke out immediately, but was suppressed with little damage. As soon as the debris had ceased falling, and the smoke and the steam had blown off, a scene of indescribable confusion was witnessed. The boiler was in fragments, the greater part of it having gone through the roof and being thrown a hundred yards to the north. The lesser portion went a similar distance in an opposite direction. Broken machinery and fallen walls were seen on all sides, while dead and dying men were plainly observed scattered here and there among the ruins. Police officers and medical men were quickly summoned from Newburg and from this city, and injured men with the bodies of the dead were taken into the office for indentification and treatment. Three men were killed outright and eight or ten seriously injured. Among the latter was Francis P. Bradley, a carpenter. His arm and leg were broken, his groin and back severely cut, resulting in his death a few hours afterward.

Miraculous, If True.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 15.—There resides in the vicinity of Pigeon Creek a man named Richard Hoffman. He has been for years a helpless cripple, lately unable to move about even with the aid of crutches. A day or two since, while being hauled out in a wagon made expressly for him, he says a voice, as from afar, spoke unto him, saying, "Arise!" Thinking the command was from God, Hoffman attempted to arise and found himself able to do so. He is now able to go about as other men. The miraculous affair is vouched for by some of the best citizens of the county.

A Fatal Railroad Accident.

KANSAS CITY, November 15.—At Oak Grove, twenty miles from here last night, a construction train on Alton railroad was wrecked by running into a hand car. One brakeman and five section men were killed, and eight or ten others wounded.

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 15.—Full particulars of the Alton railroad accident at Grain Valley last night cannot be learned until the arrival of the wreck train, which is expected at 2 o'clock this afternoon, bearing the dead and wounded. The passenger train from the east, due here at 9 30 last night arrived at 11 o'clock to-day. The names of the killed and wounded cannot be learned, but the latest reports show that three are killed and eight wounded, although the dispatch received last night stated the number of dead as six. The construction train was backing to Grain Valley to leave the track clear for the passage of trains. When rounding a curve it struck the hand car. The men on the hand car jumped and saved themselves. The car ran under the wheels of the caboose, throwing it off the track, and the six flat cars followed. The engine was partially derailed. The men on the flat car jumped, but a number were caught in the wreck and badly crushed. Owing to the sparsely-settled character of the country it was difficult to obtain early medical aid. The wrecking train was sent from here last night, and provisions made for bringing the victims to this city to-day. The sufferers, excepting Brakeman Corcoran, who resided here, are section hands at Grain Valley. The train was running at ordinary speed at the time of the collision, but came upon the car before any time was given for warning. The track and road-bed were badly torn up, and consequently the delay to trains was longer than anticipated.

Mr. Gladstone's Statement.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—In the house of commons yesterday Mr. Gladstone made a statement relative to Egypt. He said there were now only 12 000 troops there, but the present state of things was provisional. The government had no idea of allowing so large a force to remain there long. The next step would be to conclude a convention relative to a temporary arrangement for the safety of the country, including the charge for the maintenance of the troops. Mr. Gladstone said the convention fixing the time of the occupation and the payment therefore by Egypt would be modelled on that concluded with France after the battle of Waterloo. He stated that the convention would be presented to the house when concluded, but he was unable to say that it would be ready this session. Her Majesty's government had not arrived at any decision that it would be desirable to claim from Egypt the expenses of the war as distinguished from the expenses of the occupation. Sir Stafford Northcote protested against the reticence of the government. He said he would, on behalf of the opposition, take an early opportunity for discussing the subject of occupation and of the surrender of Arabi Pacha to the Egyptian authorities.

Troy's Troublesome Time.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 14.—There is great excitement here over the organization of the new board of aldermen. The republicans and independants have thirteen members and the democrats twelve. The latter at the meeting of the old board seated a candidate who claimed to be elected to fill a vacancy, thus tieing the board. Mayor Fitzgerald to day suspended the city clerk and appointed a clerk pro tem. and the democrats left the room while the roll was being called to organize the new board. The clerk pro tem. then recognized the claim of ex-Alderman Morrissey, independent, as holding over and the board proceeded to organize without the democrats. The courts will be appealed to for a settlement of the matter.

A Light Sentence.

TRENTON, November 14.—Colonel Chas. H. Houghton, ex-collector of the port of Perth Amboy, who was convicted a few weeks ago of transmitting a false voucher to the government was sentenced by Judge Nixon to-day to pay a fine of $500 and costs of prosecution. Judge Nixon stated that he did not believe Houghton entertained any intention to defraud the government but that he was simply guilty of the carelessness and irregularities charged, and in view of his services to his country and the recommendation of the jury for mercy he would impose a light sentence.

Killed on the Railroad.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 14.—Jacob Muellaner, while walking on the Reading railroad to-night, was struck by a locomotive and almost instantly killed. From papers found on his person it is learned that he was ordained a priest at Budweiss college, Austria. A passport places his age at 34 and residence at Schickennoff, District of Sewill, Austria. His remains will be properly interred by the Catholics of this city.

A Commendable Idea.

HAVANA, November 13.—A dispatch has been received from King Alfonso expressing a desire that the money which would be used to celebrate the birth of the infant Spanish princess be devoted to the relief of the sufferers by the cyclone in the Vuelta Abajo.

Killed while Going to Church.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 14.—Lacolle station, one and one-half miles west of New Florence, was the scene of a shocking accident on Sunday morning about 10 o'clock. Lemon Crawford, a young man aged about 22 years, a son of Thomas Crawford, while attempting to board east-bound freight engine 239, was thrown under the wheels and injured so badly that he died in about an hour. Crawford's home is on the opposite side of the river from where the accident occurred. He, in company with his parents, on their way to church had just forded the river on horseback to the road when the freight cars came along. Lemon determined to ride to Florence on it, resulting in his death in the presence of his horrified parents.

Drowned Himself.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., November 15.—This morning the body of David Jenkins was found floating in the Monongahela river here. It is supposed that he committed suicide. David was in his 40th year and the son of a local minister of the Methodist church. Mr. Jenkins was once extensively engaged in the hardware business. The deceased leaves a sister, the wife of Captain L. P. Chester. He had been married for thirteen years, but had no children. He was widely known and at one time considered one of the best hardware salesmen in the state.

MISS COLBRATH'S

WHAT TO GET FOR BREAKFAST

Few questions of daily living perplex the housewife more than "What to get for breakfast." The influence of the meal affects the household for the entire day. It must send them out happier and better, and at the same time be prepared with due regard to time and expense. Miss Colbrath has kept this in view in her multitude of completely arranged breakfasts, practical plans, suggestions, and full recipes, suited alike to humble and elegant homes.

—The weekly production of glass at the works of the Bellefonte Glass Company is 900 boxes, or 150 boxes per day.

—The pay car of the Pennsylvania railroad visited this place on Tuesday afternoon of last week. We do not record this for the benefit of railroad men for they know all about it.

—A new pavement on the High Street side of the Brockerhoff House is one of the much-needed improvements upon which operations were commenced Wednesday morning of last week

—Governor-elect Pattison should not neglect to do something handsome for our townsman, Senator Alexander. He made sacrifices for the benefit of the ticket in this Senatorial district. Wouldn't he make an excellent attorney general?

—The disagreeable duty of laying that tile floor is now in progress in the Bush House office. The improvement when the floor is laid will be sufficient recompense for the inconvenience it now gives the proprietor and guests.

—The men at the glass works will never suffer from cold temperature even in the most friged weather. The hot glass taken out of the fiery furnace and swung to and fro causes a constant circulation of hot air, keeping everybody in a constant glow of heat.

—Mr. D. C. Gingerich, of Oak Hall, has increased the capacity of his flouring mill by the addition of new and improved machinery. Mr. Gingerich is a practical miller, and the flour he manufactures is of an excellent quality and finds a market all over the country.

—We have received the following notice from the managers of the late Holly Tree Inn, to which we call the attention of the public: "Persons desiring a cooking stove, tables, lamps, kitchen utensils, dishes, &c, will call November 15, from 2 to 5 p. m., when every thing will be disposed of."

—Mr. Howard Lingle has purchased the vacant lot on the corner of Linn and Spring streets, opposite the public school grounds, and will begin the erection of a residence in the near future. The location is one of the finest in the borough and our prosperous young friend is to be envied in his fortunate purchase.

—The Clinton County Sunday School Association held its thirteenth annual convention at Salona commencing on Wednesday evening of last week. We see from the programme that Rev. R. Crittenden was expected to be present on Thursday with an address on "The Mistakes of the Sunday School."

—Jack Spangler to George Freeman (colored): "Well, George, are you getting ready to go up Salt River?" George to Jack: "No, sar, can't go up till you go ahead and clear out de fish baskets." Immense applause from the sidewalk, during which Mr. Spangler has lots of time to hunt up another question, but concludes not to.

—To pay a wager, a Beaver man in Williamsport wheeled a Pattison man in a wheel-barrow about a mile through the principal streets of that city. The Beaver man understood thoroughly the art of manipulating that vehicle and succeeded in making the occupant of it so sore before the journey was completed that he has not been able to sit down since.

—We are told that the tremendous reports occasioned by the explosion of the dynamite cartridges on Saturday evening were heard at Centre Hall, the people of that village imagining that a fierce battle was being waged in this vicinity. Glass was broken in the jail, in Mr. Sternberg's house and also in the old Methodist church building, now occupied as a residence.

—We regret to record the death of Mark J. Williams, a venerable citizen of Huston township, which event occurred about two weeks ago. His widow survives him. She became his wife only three months ago and is thus early deprived of the partner of her joys and afflictions. The deceased left an estate valued at from $8,000 to $10,000. The mourning friends have our sympathy.

The Huntingdon Car and Wheel Works Burned.

From the DAILY NEWS of the 16th.

We learn from the Altoona Tribune that a destructive conflagration occurred at Huntingdon on Wednesday evening. The main erecting shop and the paint shop, with all the tools and implements therein and between thirty-five and forty cars, being a part of the Huntingdon car and wheel works operated by the Blain Brothers, were totally destroyed by fire.

The fire originated in the paint shop. The flame from a hand lamp carried by a workman being brought in too close contact with a barrel which contained lamp black and benzine, an explosion or spontaneous combustion took place, which quickly communicated the flames to the wooden building. Fred Cleve, foreman of the paint shop, was burned severely about the face and arms before he escaped from the burning building, though his injuries are not of a dangerous nature. With the assistance of the Huntingdon fire department and the fire apparatus connected with the shops the flames were prevented from attacking the blacksmith shop and planing mill, which were only separated by a short distance. Thirty cars were standing on the tracks in the erecting shop and ten in the paint shop, all of which were destroyed. Four hundred men are employed at the works and this calamnity will throw at least two-thirds of them out of work, though only temporarily, as Mr. Blain, a member of the firm, announces that the entire complement of men will be at work within two weeks in temporary shops if necessary.

The capacity of the shops was two hundred car wheels and twelve box cars daily. The firm is under contract to build eleven hundred and fifty narrow gauge cars for the Toledo, Cincinnati and St. Louis railway, and the work was being pushed forward rapidly to make room for other orders.

The insurance on the destroyed portions of the establishment is $75,000, which, it is supposed, will cover all losses.

—The boat, which was a conspicuous object in the parade on Saturday evening, was designed for the purpose of conveying passengers up Salt River. Its journey was made with the greatest difficulty, however, and on its way up jail hill it almost came to a dead stop. What hindered its progress was a source of perplexity for a long time, but was solved when a sounding line was lowered into the stream. It was discovered that the stream had been filled with fish baskets by officious persons and the duty of removing them had been carelessly performed, though with a lavish outlay of money. It was discovered that a serious mistake had occurred in neglecting to make a separate appropriation in the famous River and Harbor bill for the purpose of widening and cleaning this stream. What the Democratic party will do in the premises remains to be seen.

—There are few hotels in Centre county, outside of Bellefonte, better kept than the one presided over by Mr. William Musser at Millheim. This is one the oldest houses of public entertainment in the country. It was kept in 1820 by a man named Shaffer and twenty years later was in charge of ex-Sheriff Musser, who run it twenty years. The property was purchased in 1855 by Mrs. Musser, wife of the ex-Sheriff. The present landlord took the helm in 1877, and his efforts to make the hotel the best in the valley have been crowned with success. The house is furnished in good taste from office to attic, and nothing seems lacking that could add to the comfort of its numerous patrons. Mr. Musser is a clever man and a popular landlord and as such will prosper in the future as he has in the past.

—Gen. Beaver exhibits the proper kind of a spirit in his defeat. He labored as faithfully and manfully as he could to accomplish the triumph of the party and principles he represented. Having failed in that, he will take defeat gracefully. Having performed his duty, he is and has a right to be perfectly satisfied. His strong voice has almost sunk to a whisper in consequence of the severe strain put upon it of late, but that is the only evidence that remains of the great battle he has passed through. General Beaver is full of pluck and will not think of revenge. Many Republicans disgraced themselves by refusing to vote for him, but whomsoever the Republicans shall choose to nominate in regular convention hereafter will receive his hearty support. Give him a chance to fight and he'll up and at it again.

—This is said by hunters to be prime weather for the pursuit of that sport.

A Few Subjects for Debate.

A North ward man hurrahed for Beaver the morning of election, voted for "Stewart and reform" at noon, whooped 'er up for Pattison when the returns came in, and then went home and stole a bushel of coal from his neighbor. What are his politics?

Is the Democratic party of Centre county losing its grip on the machine? If so, what effect will it have on the coming ice crop?

If the campaign speeches of J. L. Spangler, W. C. Heinle, Adam Hoy and Ellis Orvis reduced the Democratic majority in the county 400 how many sheets of chin music by the same quartette will it require to elect the Republican ticket next year?

Will an office under the Pattison government repay P. G. Meek for his shameful abuse of Gen. Beaver?

If the bald-headed Governor-elect of Massachusetts has been 30 years trying to raise a crop of hair how long will it take Thad Longwell's mustache to mature?

How does it happen that in an age of talking machines, electric lights, and eleven-story boarding houses Bellefonte is obliged to put up with a freight shed for a depot?

The above questions are respectfully submitted to the Y. M. C. A. debating club, now organizing.

A Link of Love.

The Altoona Tribune of Wednesday, the 15th, contains the following announcement:

It is our pleasant duty to announce the solemnization of the nuptials of Mr. Benjamin J. Shroyer and Miss Annie Mann, second daughter of Judge C. J. Mann. The ceremony took place last evening at the residence of the bride's parents, Eighth avenue near Twelfth street.

The ceremony alluded to above took place at 8 o'clock p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Harper of this place were present, and also Mr. Richard Garman. The happy couple received numerous handsome presents and the occasion was a very enjoyable one to all concerned. They took the midnight train to Philadelphia. The groom is well and favorably known in Bellefonte, and in Miss Mann he doubtless secured a worthy bride. May their married life be long and happy is the wish of the REPUBLICAN.

Communicated.]

Will the REPUBLICAN grant me a little space for a word of thanks to the many friends of the various religious denominations in Bellefonte whose kindly ministrations have contributed so much to the family comfort in our present trial?

These ministrations were never more abounding than they were on Monday evening.

If those who have thus remembered us could have looked in upon the little group at the bed side of the sick and almost helpless mother, they could have seen far more than I can attempt to write

To these many kind friends who have been evidently led by the hand of Providence to fill for us this "cup" of blessing "that runneth over," we offer our sincere thanksgiving with the prayer that the bountiful Giver of all good may abundantly reward them.

R. CRITTENDEN.

Cabbages and Turnips at Philipsburg.

From the Philipsburg Journal: Another curiosity in the shape of three turnips grown together from one root, was presented to us by Daniel Ayers, of this city, the other day, together with a large specimen of the same species of vegetable. He informs us that he has since found among his patch, which contains about eighty bushels, a still greater curiosity in the shape of four turnips growing together having only one root.

Johnny Callahan came marching into our office on Wednesday afternoon with one of the largest heads of cabbage of the season. It grew in Johnny's garden, weighs twenty-two pounds, and is as solid as a ten pin ball. He says it is of the latest Democratic variety, and doesn't think it can be beat.

—Gregg Post, G. A. R., are making arrangements to give a series of entainments in Reynolds' Opera House on the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, November 29 and 30 and also to continue on the following Friday and Saturday evenings, December 1 and 2. At that time the most popular military drama ever written, "The German Volunteer," will be given. Will D. Saphar, a noted Dutch comedian, will enact the two principal characters Deitrick and Katrina. The other characters of the drama will be taken by home talent. This drama has been rendered frequently in our neighboring city of Lock Haven, and every place where it has been given was received with popular favor.

—Weddings are now a daily occurrence in and around Bellefonte.

The Perils of Hunting.

Nearly all our weekly exchanges contain accounts of shooting accidents happening within their respective baliwicks, and the number is most remarkable. A few of the accidents have proved fatal and most of them have been very serious. Some of the unfortunates have been mistaken by their companions for turkeys, deer, bears, and other game, and peppered; but in the majority of cases the hunter trips and falls down, being careful to get in front of the muzzle about the time the treacherous trigger starts out the load, or else tries to run through the briar and under bushes with his gun cocked and pointed toward himself. Game is very scarce now and hard to get, and no hunter should risk his life in the woods until there is some kind of an understanding effected, which will prevent every man and boy in the woods from mistaking you for a turkey or a goose.

—A new plan has been devised to give opera or theatrical entertainments. It is to construct fifteen railroad cars on such a plan that after they reach the place where the entertainment is proposed to be given they can be placed on tracks and hauled some distance from the railroad. One of these cars will be made so as to open and form a stage 60 feet wide and over 100 feet deep. The others will be drawn together and opened out so as to form a floor with opera chairs capable of seating 6,000 people. Over all will be spread a huge tent. Good scenery will be carried along, and the stage and auditorium will be illuminated with the electric light, manufactured by an engine carried in one of the cars. The enterprise will cost $75,000 or $100,000.

—Two Lock Haven newspapers—the Daily Journal and the Evening Express—are indulging in a discussion of remarkable importance on the result of which the fate of nations depend. The Journal is morally certain that it was the first to appear on the street on the morning after the election and reached Renovo before any other paper started in that direction. On the other hand, the Express claims to have been on the street first and to have made its bow to the people of Renovo before the Journal. Now, brother quill drivers, isn't it possible you were both drunk and unable to appear at all on that memorable occasion and that the Daily News circulated the election intelligence before any other paper?

SO SAY WE ALL OF US.—There is a wonderful unanimity among the physicians (and their name is legion) who have tried and prescribed Hunt's Remedy to their patients. They agree in its inestimable worth. For affections of the kidneys, liver, bladder, and urinary organs, it is a nonesuch, and works with marvelous directness of power. It is against the rules of the medical fraternity to give written testimonials in favor of "proprietary medicines," but we have scores of verbal testimonies from the best physicians as to the value of Hunt's Remedy. It is placed among their most valued prescriptions, and used in severe cases of kidney and liver disease as freely as is quinine as an anti-periodic. With such an endorsement, one cannot go wrong in buying this medicine for himself, and following the specific directions which accompany it.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company are adopting a new style of through tickets, which it is thought will prevent them being transferred and will head off the scalpers. They are entirely different from those now in use, having the name of the purchaser written on the back instead of being stamped with the customary seal of the company. The date of the sale will be punched directly over the signature, which will prevent the erasing of both name and stamp from the ticket. It is the intention to gradually supersede the present style of tickets by this new style, as the company have been troubled considerably by the sale of through tickets by ticket scalpers.

Snatched from the Grave.

My wife was at the brink of the grave. She had been given up to die by three of Allegheny City's best physicians. They all pronounced her disease consumption. Her fingernails and lips were blue; was pulseless at the wrist; we were all called to witness her death. At this moment a neighbor brought in Dr. Hartman, who prescribed a teaspoonful of Peruna every hour. She improved from the first dose, and in a week she was up, and now (less than six months) she is well. See page 30 in the "Ills of Life," a book you can get gratis of your druggist. If not, address Dr. Hartman, Osborn, Ohio.

Cuticura

THE NEW BLOOD PURIFIER

Resolvent

I will now state that I made a miraculous cure of one of the worst cases of skin disease known. The patient is a man forty years old; had suffered fifteen years. His eyes, scalp and nearly his whole body presented a frightful appearance. Had had the attention of twelve different physicians, who prescribed the best remedies known to the profession, such a iodide potassium, arsenic, corrosive sublimate, sarsaparilla, etc. Had paid $500 for medical treatment with but little relief. I prevailed upon him to use Cuticura Resolvent internally, and the Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally. He did so and was completely cured. The skin on his head, face, and many other parts of his body, which presented a most loathsome appearance, is now as soft and smooth as an infant's, with no scar or trace of the disease left behind. He has now been cured twelve months.

Reported by
F. H. BROWN, Esq., Barnwell, S. C.

SCROFULA SORE.

Rev. Dr. ——, in detailing his experience with the Cuticura Remedies, said that through Divine Providence one of his parishioners was cured of a scrofulous sore, which was slowly draining away his life, by the Cuticura Resolvent internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally. The poison that had fed the disease was completely driven out.

ECZEMA.

Sixteen months since an eruption broke out on my legs and both feet, which turned out to be Eczema, and caused me great pain and annoyance. I tried various remedies with no good results, until I used the Cuticura Resolvent internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, which entirely cured me so that my skin is as smooth and natural as ever.

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc; also Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by Self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

Local Department.

—Mifflinburg is to have a steam tannery.

—Autumn leaves have lost their beautiful color.

—A general cleaning up of streets would be in order now.

—The holidays approach and the festive fowl is fattening in the coop.

—A very clever counterfeit of the standard silver dollar is in circulation.

—The appetizing odor of the buckwheat cake now scents the morning air.

—Probably the pumpkin pie and coffee reception will be followed by a mush-and-milk feast.

—Mr. Daniel Wisotzkey has disposed of his local express business to Mr. James Cornelius.

—The annual institute of Clearfield teachers will be held during the week beginning December 11.

—A large number of choice and interesting new books have recently been added to the Presbyterian Sunday-school library.

—Thanksgiving proclamations are being mailed by the governor to each clergyman in the State. This is a custom that has long been in use.

—Skates are being hunted up and polished by the boys, the frosty mornings reminding them of the sport that awaits them in the near future.

—The Democrats who went from this place to participate in the demonstration at Howard on Thursday evening returned about 2 o'clock the next morning.

—Rev. J. H. Vincent, D.D., delivered his lecture entitled "That Boy's Sister" at Tyrone on Friday evening. He is the same gentleman who lectured in this place some time ago about "That Boy."

—The very enterprising firm of McCoy & Linn, are erecting a new wire mill in the rear of the building at present used for that purpose. It will double the facilities of the firm for producing wire.

—Prof. Jordon, of State College, will deliver an address before the Clinton County Agricultural Society, on Tuesday evening, November 28, in the Court House at Lock Haven. Subject, "Fertilizers."

—Some of the experience of our Democratic friends in returning from the jubilee at Howard was not entirely satisfactory. If the man had choked a little harder there would have been one less Democrat in the country.

—Sleigh manufacturers do not depend upon plentiful falls of snow to render their business successful. John Bartruff has orders for twenty sleighs although there has not yet been enough of the "beautiful" to whiten the ground.

—Several weeks have elapsed since any dramatic troupes visited this place but the amusement loving part of the population will be richly entertained by the series of dramatic representations to be given by Gregg Post, G. A. R., beginning on Wednesday evening, the 29th inst.

—What a peculiar style that is the ladies have adopted! While remaining in the house during the day they keep a veil bound tightly around their heads, looking for all the world as if they have a bad headache or are severely injured. The object is to keep their artificial bangs in place.

—Rev. Prof. D. M, Wolf, of Spring Mills, superintendent of Centre county schools, announces that the county institute will be held as usual this year and he is now endeavoring to engage competent instructors for the occasion. Don't forget to include a few lady instructors, Professor; they are the most popular and—interesting.

—The entertainments to be given by Gregg Post, G. A. R., are for the benefit of the relief fund of that organization, the moneys of which are used to help soldiers and their families who need assistance. The "German Volunteers" will be given and it is expected that there will be a large attendance at each entertainment, beginning on the 29th instant and continuing four nights.

—A gentleman of color residing in Lock Haven, while slightly inebriated, drove his wife away from home and carried his children off to the house of an acquaintance. When his wife again encountered him he had forgotten what had been done with the little ones. His wife, under the impression that he had drowned them, spent the whole night in searching for them, finding them at last in the morning.

Money Expended in Building and Improvements.

Please do not say that Bellefonte is dead, or that it is dying; but agree with us that it shows steady growth and prosperity. There is nothing sensational in business affairs to throw our community into a white heat of excitement that must end either in the gain or loss of millions of money, but there is a constant, careful and judicious outlay which aggregates considerable in a year's time, but which is accomplished in such unostentatious, methodical, business-like ways as to make the citizens who sigh for excitement exclaim that the borough and all its inhabitants are fossilized beyond the hope of resuscitation.

The amount of money expended during the past year in building, machinery and improvements in and around Bellefonte is larger than one would naturally suppose and we do not believe it will fall short of $150,000 if it does not exceed that sum. The first item mentioned—building—alone is more than $70,000.

The most costly item in architecture completed during the present year is the Reformed church, which was occupied for the first time during the month of October. The approximate cost of that beautiful building is $15,000.

The Centre County Banking Company's building cost about the same—$15,000. A boarding house building erected near the nail works cost $2,000 and the nail works building, minus the machinery, required an investment of $5,000. J. R. Bartruff's carriage works building, which was finished in May, cost $800. Residences, completed during the year or almost finished, are about as follows: Isaac Thomas' residence (almost completed) $8,000; E. M. Sturdevant's (now well advanced), $5,000; H. C. Weaver's residence on Howard street, $3,000; Miss Elizabeth Baney's house, $1400; Daniel Garman's residence on East High street, $1200; John Olewine's residence on Willow Bank street, $1800; Thomas Myer's residence, $1000; G. W. Rees' dwelling house on Methodist Hill, $1000; Mrs. Williams' residence, near Spring township school house, $800; Christ Miller's residence on Methodist Hill, $600; Mr. Spangler's dwelling house near reservoir, $700; row of dwelling houses erected by D. G. Bush, $2,500; and a stone engine house by Reynolds & Co., $500. On Bishop street four residences have been erected at a cost of at least $4,000—or a grand total of $69,400.

In addition to the above, there was the valuable machinery put in the establishment of the Bellefonte Nail Company, costing at least $30,000; thousands of dollars worth of machinery put in T. R. Reynolds & Co's flouring mill; very expensive machinery for steel works; fitting up Bartruff's carriage manufactory and many other similar investments, which would make the amount expended in this manner exceed another $50,000.

In scores of business and private houses throughout the town there have been more or less extensive improvement, causing an outlay of many thousands, but which was expended in such a way as not to involve any sacrifice or inconvenience. The total amount of money invested in these outlays exceeded $150,000. On the other hand one important business establishment ceased operations and the many thousand dollars invested in it are now lying idle and unremunerative. We refer to the car works. Why not profit by the misfortune of Huntingdon in the destruction of the car works at that place on the 15th instant and start the institution in this place in operation?

The building prospects for '83 are encouraging. A new building has been commenced by D. G. Bush, Esq., and at least one edifice for religious purposes and one dwelling house have been contracted for.

A Wedding at Snow Shoe.

WALTER—BYERS.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Snow Shoe, Pa., on Wednesday, November 1st, at 2 o'clock p. m., by Rev. W. A. Carver, Mr. Lewis C. Walter, of West Chester, Pa., to Miss Annie A. Byers.

Quite a number of relatives and friends witnessed the nuptials that made the happy pair one for the remainder of their lives.

The bride was presented with a large number of beautiful and useful presents, among which we noticed a sewing machine, a parlor set of furniture, two carpets, a silver castor, butter dish and knives, two lamps, glassware, a full dinner set, two clocks, a large looking glass and a large variety of linen and cotton articles, including toilet sets, bed furnishing goods, &c., besides many other articles too numerous to mention.

The happy couple started after a generous supply of refreshments had been served, for Philipsburg, where they intend to make their home in the future. W. A. C.

A SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

A Young Man is Thrown from his Horse and Dragged to his Home a Mangled Corpse.

A frightful accident occurred at the Howard mine banks Thursday evening, John Yocum, aged 16 years, son of Mr. David Yocum, of Walker township, being the victim. The young man was on his way home to supper, riding horseback, when the animal stumbled, throwing him from his seat, his head and shoulders striking the ground. In falling his leg became entangled in one of the traces, and before he could extricate himself the horse took fright and dashed away at break-neck speed. In this position the young man was dragged over a mile, all efforts to stop the flying steed proving unavailing. At the residence of Mr. Yocum the horse slackened up and came to a stand-still, but too late to save his unfortunate rider, who was quite lifeless, and cut and mangled almost beyond recognition. The flesh was torn from his face and neck by coming in contact with the sharp rocks in the road, his left arm broken and his back and breast terribly lacerated. His clothing was al most entirely stripped from his body and distributed along the road, the only articles remaining on him being one boot and a part of one leg of his over-alls. The horse, in his wild rush, leaped two ditches and it is a wonder the man's limbs were not wrenched from his body. So shocking a catastrophe has not occurred in those parts before in many years. The young man was well liked, sober and industrious, and his terrible death casts a gloom over the entire neighborhood in which he lives.

Death of Mrs. Martha Kimport.

We announced the death of the lady whose name is contained in the above title at the time it occurred. "W. F. S.," a friend of the deceased, sends us the following regarding the sad event:

DIED: On the third instant, in Penn township, Mrs. Martha Kimport, aged 63 years, 4 months and 18 days.

Mrs. Kimport had attacks of an apoplectic character dating back several years, but for nearly one year before her death she enjoyed reasonable good health, although one of her hands was paralized and comparatively useless. On the morning of the 2d instant, after eating breakfast, she went about the house occupied with light duties as usual, when she was suddenly overcome by a peculiar sensation in her throat and breast.

Dr. P. T. Musser having been summoned, after an investigation pronounced her case critical, and on the morning of the day following her prostration she breathed her last calmly and serenely, and her exit out of this world was but the dawn of a new and beautiful era in her life. Judging from her consistent, Christian life and character, "we need not mourn as without hope," for

"Cold in the dust that cherished heart may lie,
But that which warmed it once can never die."

W. F. S.

To the Memory of an Infant.

We have received the following tribute to the memory of an infant child of James B. and Jennie Curtin, who died a short time ago. May its tender sentiments indeed prove consoling to the parents.

At the quiet hour of five o'clock, on Sunday evening, October 29th, the "Good Shepherd" came to the pleasant and happy home of Mr. James B. and Jennie Curtin, at Curtin's Furnace, and took away their dear little "lamb," George Harris Curtin, to the early crowning in the land of the "immortal," "the ever-green shore." They loved him much because he was so interesting and lovable. Even strangers were wonderfully impressed with the natural amiableness and sweetness of this remarkable child. For several months he had been a great sufferer, but his patience gloriously triumphed over pain, and his closing moment was a calm dying into life, like a summer wave gently rippling to the shore. It is enough; let us trust in and live to Him, and in our death we shall glorify God.

BY A LOVER OF LITTLE CHILDREN.

—Now that cold weather is upon us, housekeepers, merchants and others are having their stoves and furnaces brought into requisition. To guard against the many dangers and accidents that happen during the season of fires, persons cannot be too careful in examining their flues and chimneys. Too often is it the case that a house or a store takes fire and is consumed with all its contents, and often to the hazard even of life, from a defective flue or a foul chimney. Let every one look to this matter, and thus avoid the dangers that beset them. Remember "a stitch in time saves nine."

—A drunken individual amused the children at the railroad station on Saturday afternoon.

How to Guard Against Diphtheria.

The following from an exchange is timely and may prove beneficial: Diphtheria is the result of a cold, or it may be induced by a diphtheratic condition of the atmosphere. Hence, small children should be kept in the house on rainy, raw, damp and windy days. They should never be allowed to go out of doors before breakfast. Diphtheria is so easily communicated that the greatest caution should be exercised by parents and teachers where it exists. Never allow the children of a family in which there is diphtheria to come to school Never allow them to visit the sick room of a diphtheria patient. Never permit them to attend the funeral or go to see the corpse of a child that has died of the disease. Never allow children to wear an article of clothing which was worn by any one that had diphtheria. We officiated a few years ago at the funeral of a child which died of diphtheria under the most distressing circumstances, it having contracted the disease from wearing garments which had belonged to the children of another family who had died of diphtheria. Take all the precautions in diphtheria that are taken in smallpox. It is a tenfold more dangerous disease than smallpox. Bind flannel, dipped in coal oil, around the neck, inhale chlorine gas, and send instantly for a good physician.

—Among the persons who figured prominently in Centre county politics during the last campaign we do not know of one who bore the brunt of the battle more manfully than the Chairman of the Republican Committee, D. H. Hastings, Esq. The Democrats led a warfare which was not creditable to them, circulating untruthful stories and resorting to questionable expedients. Mr. Hastings satisfied himself with contradicting all false assertions and relying upon reason and good sense in his appeals to the people. We also approve of his methods of carrying the war into the very heart of the Democratic strongholds instead of using all his ammunition in places where there is already very strong Republican sentiment. His movements, almost without exception, were marked by wisdom and sagacity as the result abundantly showed. The Republicans lacked but a few votes of electing an assemblyman. They also reduced many of the other Democratic majorities in the county, making the prospects for future work very encouraging. There are numerous other particulars in which we might commend the good work of Chairman Hastings, but desist with the hope that the next Chairman will gather some valuable points from it.

News from the Neighborhood.

A town hall is an imaginary Curwensville want.

Religious revivals have started in numerous localities.

Williamsport has a city missionary who visits from house to house.

Somerset has marketed three thousand bushels of chestnuts this season.

A mean denizen of Lock Haven scalded his neighbor's cow the other day.

A white squirrel is a Juniata county curiosity. "Not a black hair is to be found on its body."

The peole of Cherry tree and vicinity are determined to have a new county if agitation will bring it.

Bedford's young Democrats are organizing a Pattison club, the purpose being to attend the inauguration.

Pearson Lloyd, aged 86, who has been a resident of Williamsport for 76 years, died on Tuesday of last week.

Joseph Anderson, of Greensburg, is in trouble because he has been marrying more wives than the law allows.

Clearfield Democrats jubilated on the 14th instant. The jubilee terminated in a drunken row during which several persons were badly beaten.

—The Western Union Telegragh Company collected, for the year ending last month, over seventeen million dollars for sending messages for the people of the United States, and of this amount seven million dollars represent profits. The growth of the business is indicated in the fact that the net revenue is twice as great as the average for sixteen years. That the pole nuisance is a very great one, appears from the company's report, which shows that it owns a forest of 131,060 poles. There are over twelve thousand offices, and, in 1882, they sent and received nearly thirty-nine million messages—most of them brief, as may be judged from the fact that the receipts average less than fifty cents per message. The number of messages sent has more than doubled since 1876.

—Illuminating oils are increasing in price and it will soon be necessary for economical lovers to sit in the dark.

Personal Pencilings.

Clement Dale, Esq., enjoyed his trip to Huntingdon.

Rev. S. A. Taggart went from this place to Williamsport.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Schroyer arrived in town on Saturday morning.

Hon. S. H. Yocum, says the Altoona Tribune, is about to leave Bellefonte for Tennessee.

Mr. Hiram Hoffer, of Philipsburg, arrived on the 10 o'clock train Monday morning.

E. W. Hale, of this place, registered at the Crawford House, Williamsport, Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Harshberger returned from their wedding tour on Wednesday morning of last week.

Prof. A. N. Raub, principal of the Lock Haven Normal School, would like to be superintendent of public instruction under Governor Pattison.

Mr. Benton, of Renovo, was Manager Malin's substitute at the Western Union Telegraph office during the latter's hunting expedition to York county.

Samuel Showers, of Nittany, Centre county, accompanied by his son, was in Bellefonte on Monday, and called at this office. We hope he will not forget to call again when he comes to town.

Judge Richard Watson, of Doylestown, will preside at court this week. He is a large man, weighing about 300 pounds, and if he takes a notion to sit down upon any of the legal gentlemen who appear before him they will suffer the effects of it for at least a week.

Messrs. Malin and Valentine arrived home from their York county quail hunt Saturday morning, bringing with them a handsome string of sixty birds to show for their efforts, the result of two days' shooting. This is considered pretty fair for amateurs. Col. Wilkinson will please take notice.

Our young friend, Mr. W. L. Laurie, nephew of Rev. William Laurie, of this place, departed last Thursday for the far West. He will locate with an uncle who resides in Utah and engage in the cattle herding business. He has been contemplating the change for a long time, but only concluded definitely to go to Utah on Monday, the 13th.

Coal Production.

The great Snow Shoe region has been noted for its large production of coal for forty years or more. Many years ago the region was tapped by a railroad from Tyrone and afterwards the Bald Eagle Valley R. R. was built, but it was not until 1867 that any amount of coal was supplied. Since then shipments have increased until last year they were more than 3,000,000 tons, and they might have been 4,000,000 had the railroad facilities been sufficient.

William H. Vanderbilt has purchased 33,000 acres of land west and northwest of this region. The route of the Clearfield and Western railroad, now building, traverses this tract of land in its course from Jersey Shore to a connection with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Johnstown. The development of these coal lands will make the railroad a profitable investment.

—Sealskin again comes to the front as the most popular and the most important of the furs appropriated to the wardrobe. The usual set of sealskin comprises a sacque or a dolman cloak, and a muff; a hat or a bonnet is an occasional addition to the set of sealskin, and seal ulster cloaks are made to order. The seal sacques of this season, from thirty-six to forty inches long, are a trifle shorter than those of last winter, and fitted almost as closely in the back as is the English jacket of woolen cloth.

—The reunion of the 49th regiment, Pa. Vol's, at Huntingdon, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 14th and 15th, was in all respects a very successful gathering. The President, James F. Stewart, was absent, and the meetings were presided over by Christian Dale, one of the vice presidents. Mr. Dale was again elected a vice president for the ensuing year. The next reunion of the society will be held in Mifflintown on the first Tuesday after the Presidential election in 84'.

—Some of our exchanges are giving warning of a fraud in the shape of a woman, soliciting subscriptions for a picture called "The Fruits of the West," who is on her travels. She collects the money in advance, but never delivers the pictures. Bounce her from your premises.

—The funeral services of the late Anna Mary Rankin took place from the Presbyterian church on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. Wm. Laurie conducted the services and preached a sermon.

An Early Morning Fire.

The community in and about the village of Martha were aroused on Thursday morning about 7 o'clock by the startling cry of "fire." It was discovered that the residence owned by Joseph F. Williams and occupied by Samuel Kellerman was enveloped in a sheet of seething flame which threatened its total destruction. The occupants were aroused only in time to save themselves, some of the children being rescued with difficulty. Nothing could be done to stop the course of the fire until it had burned everything, including the contents of the dwelling, to ashes. Mr. Kellerman could not afford to suffer the loss which the destruction of his furniture entailed and he is entitled to the sympathy of the community.

—Are any of our readers making arrangements to be present at the Garfield Monument Fair, at Washington, D. C., beginning on November 25?
